FOREWORD

Montana history! This is indeed a fascinating, romantic theme, full of stirring events and intriguing characters. Where in fiction could tales such as the villainies of Henry Plummer's gang, the activities of the Vigilantes, Custer's last brave stand, or the activities of the trappers and Indians be found? Little do we natives of Montana realize what a glamorous, historical background this rich Treasure state of ours possesses. Within its seemingly unlimited areas of forests, plains, and valleys, things have occurred in Montana's earlier days such as should swell the pride of any native whose forefathers took a part in and suffered hardships for the permanent founding of this state. Moreover, we would profit greatly if we followed a little more closely the noble and exalted precepts of unselfish living, and of braving all for a worthy cause, as did the early settlers in this area.

Accordingly, through the medium of our art work and its accompanying narratives, we are presenting to you as graphically as we are able, the important milestones in the history and the development of this state. We earnestly desire to inculcate in you a clearer vision of the important role the pioneers of Montana played in making this state a better place in which to live. If this is accomplished, we shall be satisfied.

Above all, do we hope that this book will forever remain a cherished possession of whomsoever may own one, and will never cease to bring back pleasing memories of high school days, so happily and joyfully spent. We have no apologies to make, nor do we expect any kudos for undertaking this annual. In your remembrances, of years that will be, lies our reward, the pleasure of knowing that we successfully have preserved the memories of the best days of your lives.

DEDICATION

The sturdy pioneers of Montana came to this great commonwealth with determination in their hearts, destiny in their souls, and visions of a great, new commonwealth in their minds. They came destined to found a new state of unsurpassed agricultural, mineral, and industrial advantages. Their task was Herculean, but nevertheless was completed very satisfactorily by the settlers. They laid solid foundations, firm in all respects, upon which every part of Montana's progress as a state has rested securely.

Prominent in this founding were such men as Marcus Daly, who first developed our great copper industry; Paris Gibson, who, having realized the future importance of Great Falls as an industrial and agricultural center, first founded this city and planned its growth; James J. Hill, who brought one of the earliest railroads into Montana, and so quickened its rise and development; and Sidney Edgerton, who, as first territorial governor of this state, brought about its early political transformation toward statehood. Such men as these, along with many others, were directly responsible for the founding of this state's present highly developed educational system. They had the vision and foresight to realize that, without educational and cultural development to a considerable extent, their firm foundations set for government and industry would soon be wiped out by the illiteracy of their ancestors. And so they built our first schools, and encouraged attendance at these by as many of the first native sons of this state as could possibly attend.

To all these broad-minded, constructive founders of Montana and its educational institutions, we appreciatively dedicate this, the 26th annual ROUND-UP, in sincere appreciation of all they have done for us.

IN MEMORIAM

EMIL JAMES BEAULAURIER
1914-1932

Emil Beaulaurier was the outstanding member of our class. He was always a popular and willing leader of his classmates in work and play; an unusually likeable fellow who had that innate ability that characterizes all great leaders. He possessed a magnetic personality that reached out to all whom he came in contact with, and made everyone who knew him a personal friend.

For two years our class chose Emil Beaulaurier as its standard bearer. In the third year, although unable to attend school longer, he was again selected as our honorary leader. For two years he did his share willingly and capably as a member of the varsity football and basketball squads. And as long as he stayed in school, he supported all its activities with every ounce of energy he possessed, of which he was a human dynamo. His accomplishments, had he not been so unfortunately taken from us, might have reached unlimited bounds.

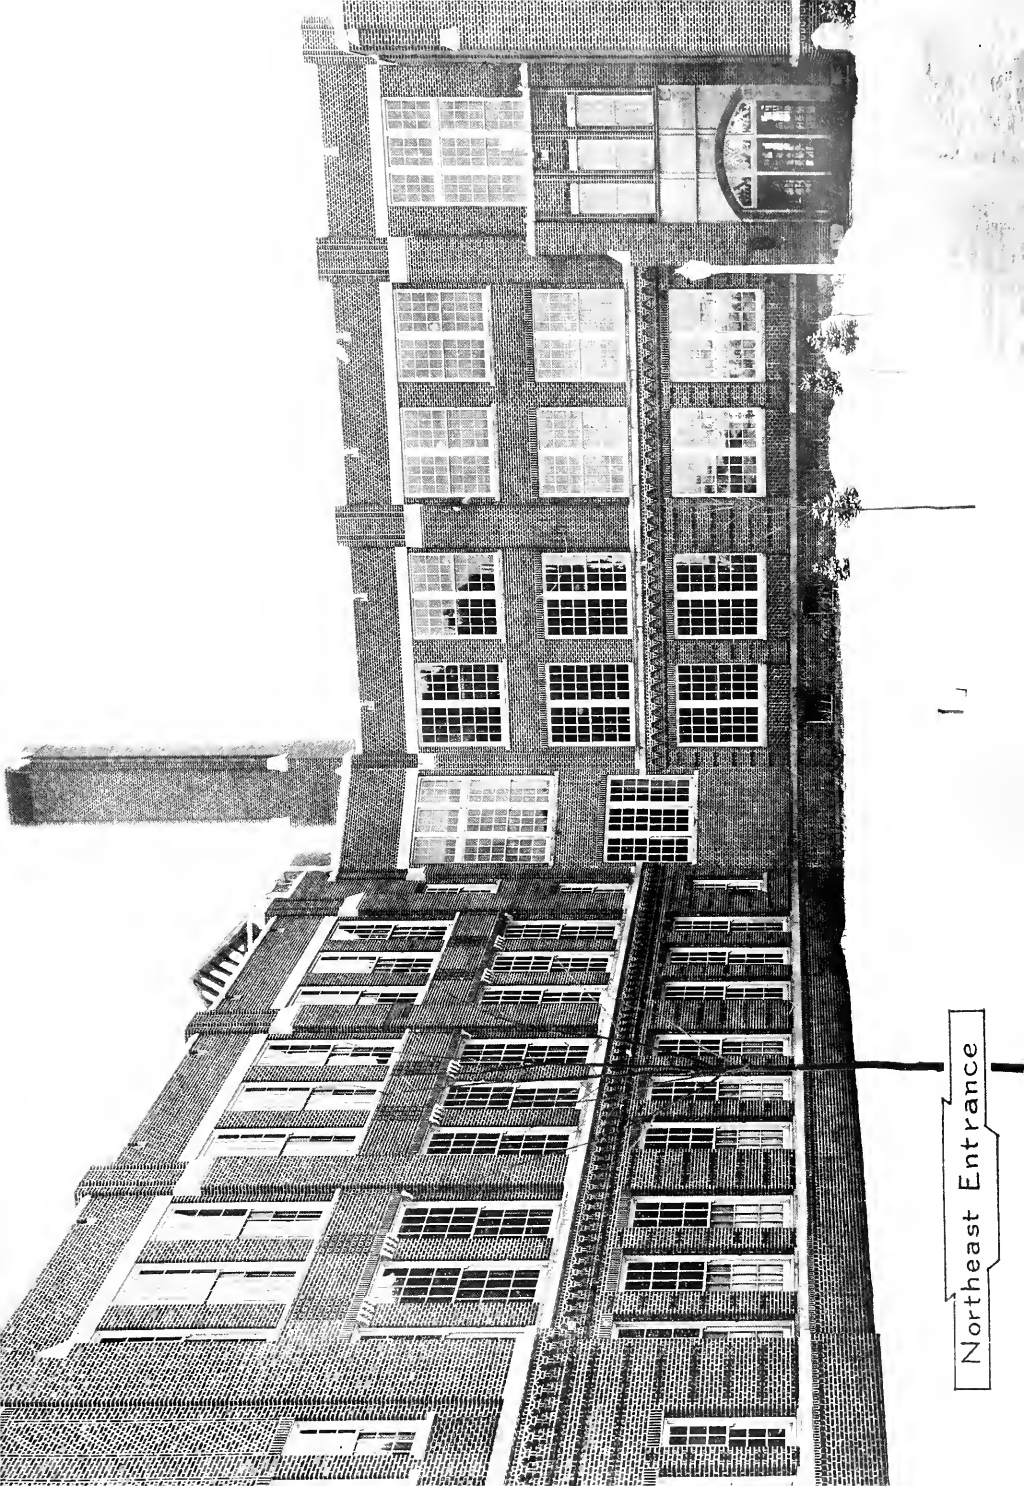

Although many of our school day memories will fade away, the memory of this remarkable personality will forever remain vividly in our minds, because he was just the sort of person we all looked up to. If each of us would preserve the memory of that unquenchable spirit of enthusiasm, faith, and loyalty, that characterized this school day friend of ours, by holding his person up as an exalted example to guide ourselves by, we could not help but be more successful in whatever we might chance to do.

TO THOSE WHO MADE THIS BOOK POSSIBLE

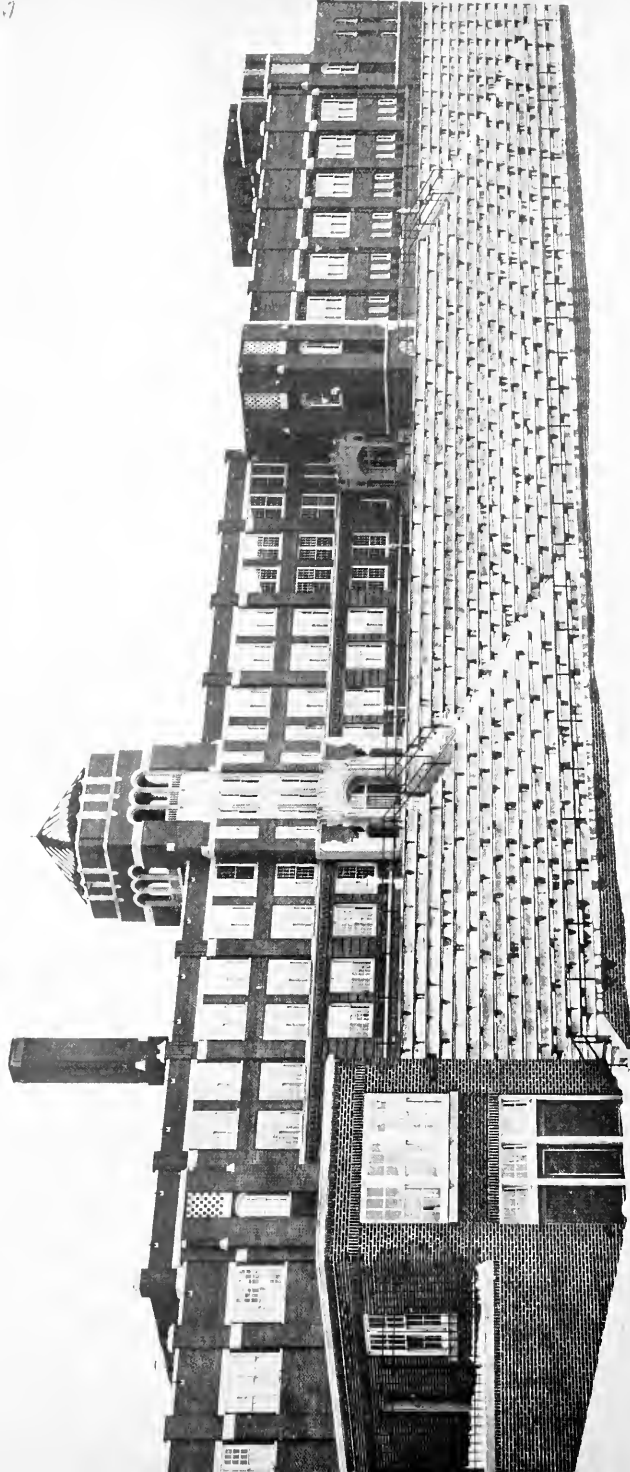

Our final year in high school has not been without its difficulties. We have been denied many things which others who preceded us in school have enjoyed. And had it not been for the exceptionally strong class spirit of the 1933 graduates, we would have likewise been denied the privilege of having this annual. To those Seniors and underclassmen who stood unflinchingly for a 1933 ROUNDUP, not only when the question was being discussed, but during the subscription campaign as well, we extend utmost appreciation.

The cooperation of the student members and advisors of the clubs and classes has helped immensely in speeding up the work on this book, final organization of which was completed late in the fall. Despite the small number of clubs existent this year, because of the unsatisfactory way in which the platoon system regulated hours, all those clubs which managed to organize worked hard in getting the necessary funds for their ROUNDUP insertion fees. Accordingly, we did not have to omit the usual organization section, which omission might seriously have impaired the success of this book. The inability of the various classes to charge dues likewise forced them to work much harder in obtaining the necessary fees, for which all the class workers should be given due credit.

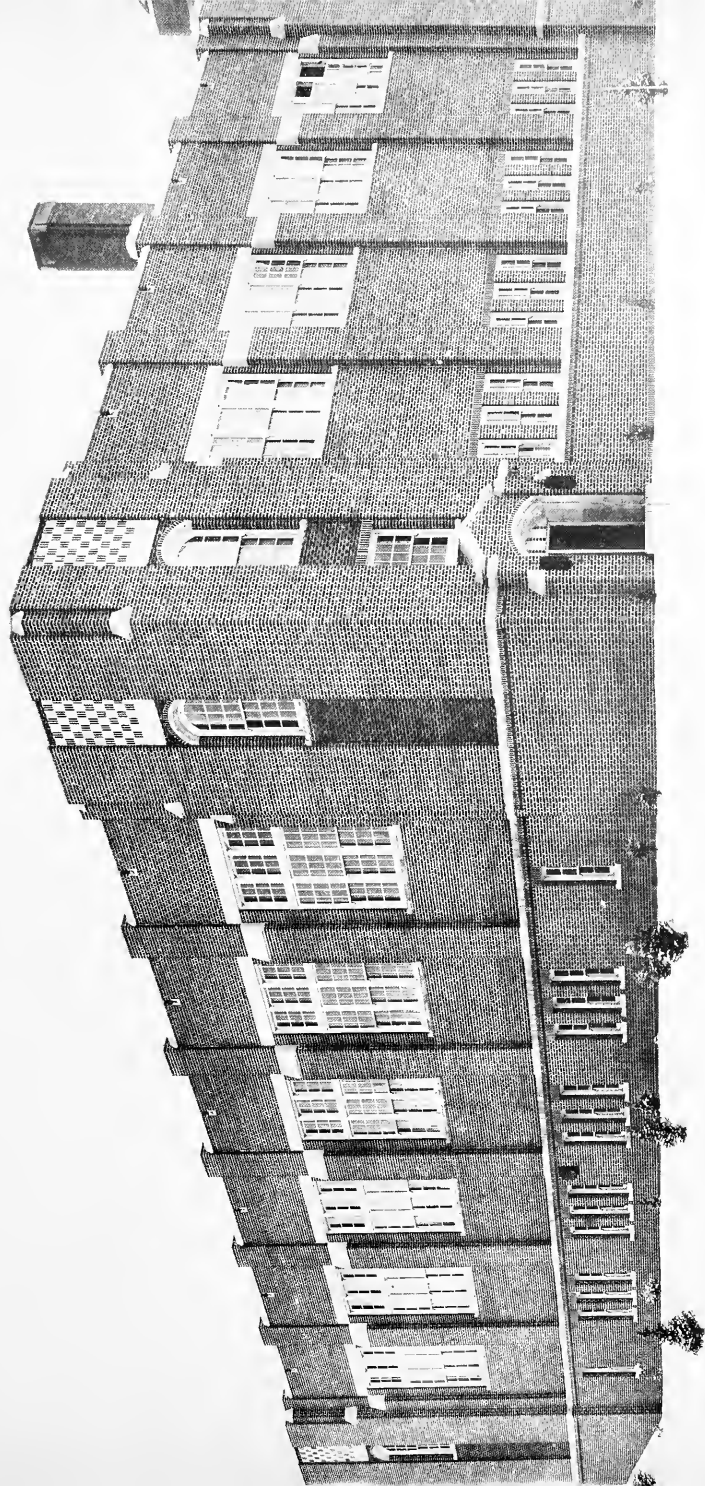

Last, but by no means least, do we appreciate the assistance rendered us by the business firms throughout the city in making up all financial deficit incurred by us. Through the medium of their sponsorships, we are enabled to follow the precedent established in past years and give the students a worth while publication costing almost twice as much as they pay for it. The merchants accept these sponsorships primarily to show their good will to you, the student body and faculty members of this school. We hope you all will conscientiously reciprocate, and show your good will to these firms by your patronage and support.

THE INDIAN

Horse stealing was great sport for the Indian. It was usually the result of tribal hostilities or the thieving nature of the Indian. In one particular case, however, the motive was undoubtedly to "play even". The following story was told by the daughter of a great Piegan chief who, himself, was the hero of the hour.

The Crow Indians had been stealing the horses of the Piegans. The Piegans prepared themselves for a similar comeback at their enemy. A war party of which Meek-i-appy, the most cunning, was the chief, started out for the Crow country. Within sight of a Crow camp and about 300 yards distant, the party dismounted in a willow thicket. Meek-i-appy fastened one end of a stout string of rawhide in the center of the thicket, and sixty yards out to the edge of the thicker, from the center, he tied the other end. To the end within the thicket he attached his medicine bag and to that, two small bells. Having completed this, he began the theft. Because of his skill the chief was designated to do the stealing and mount his warriors on the stolen horses. Soon every warrior was riding a fine, strong, supple steed.

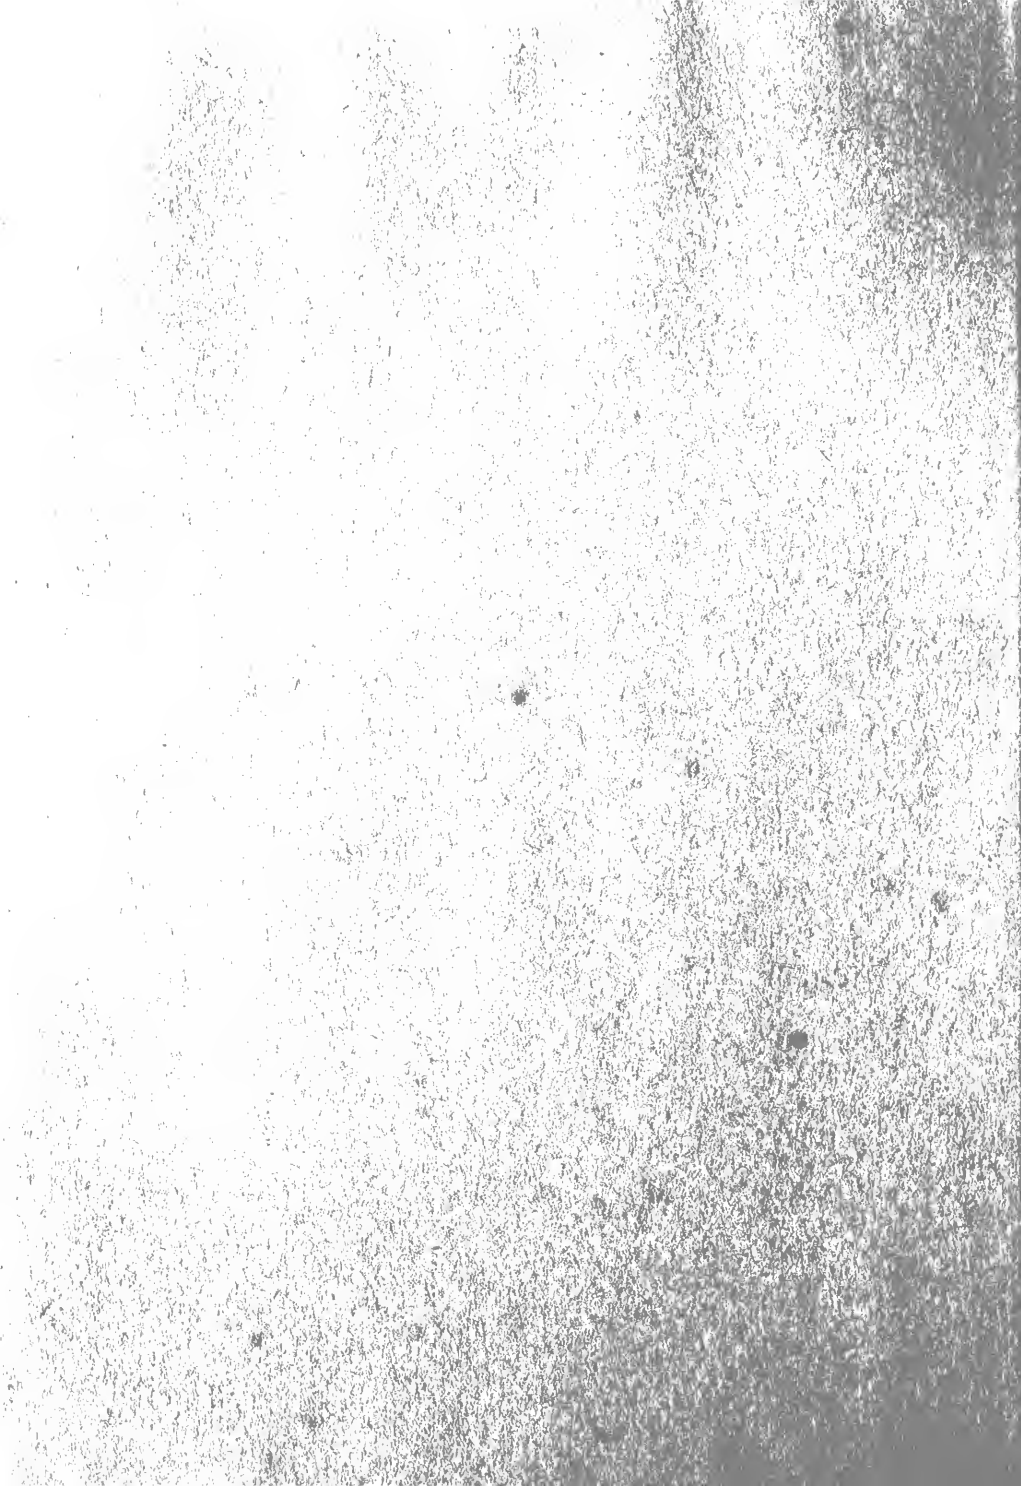

But Meek-i-appy's highest ambition was to steal the Crow chief's medicine pouch. Such a feat was a warrior's bravest accomplishment. He entered the chief's tepee and plucked the trophy from a tripon very near the sleeping chief's head. He was retreating quickly when he stumbled on the door of the lodge, and the whole camp was aroused. Meek-i-appy sought retreat in the willow thicket.

An Indian will not follow an enemy into thick brush. The Indians seeking Meek-i-appy began rapid fire from the outside. He went to the edge of the thicket, the most remote from the Indians, and pulled on the string of rawhide. The sound of the bells startled the Indians. Thinking he was there, they fired in the direction of the bells. Being at an advantage and not fired upon, Meek-i-appy killed three of the warriors. Finally the Crows stood together near the brush, opposite where the bells were ringing and one of them said in a loud voice, "Are you a man or are you a ghost?" In reply the bells rang three times. The Indians thought they had killed the Piegan and his ghost was answering them. They left, and Meek-i-appy and his warriors arrived home safe with all their spoils.

The Indian is characterized by his never-failing courage and patience. His admirable determination and leadership have won him an important place in history. It took great leaders to hold together tribes that were shaken by hostilities, wars, and hatred. Not only Indian tribes, but other organizations as well must be led by the strongest and wisest; and education, as its share, must also have capable leadership to insure the best results.

ADMINISTRATION

HIGH SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

MERLE C. GALLAGHER, B. A.

Merle C. Gallagher was graduated from the high school at Stevensville, Montana. He attended the Missoula high school for one year as a post graduate student. He then attended the University of Montana at Missoula from 1914 to 1918, when he received his B. A. degree. He gained further education in summer schools at the University of Montana, the University of Minnesota, Iowa State College, and Columbia University.

Mr. Gallagher was instructor in the high school of Wabasha, Minnesota, from 1919 to 1920. He taught at Billings, Montana, for one-half year. In September, 1921, he became principal of the high school at Two Harbors, Minnesota, where he remained for two years. In August, 1927, he accepted the position of principal of the Billings high school, where he remained until the fall of 1929, then becoming principal of Great Falls High School.

As we had the pleasure of entering high school the first year Mr. Gallagher was principal of Great Falls High School, we feel as though he is rightly a member of the class of 1933. His supervision has always been fair and square, and we have found him to be one of the high school students' best friends.

SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS

IRVING WRIGHT SMITH, M. A., Ed. M.

Irving Wright Smith was graduated from the Hartford, Connecticut, high school in 1906. He went to Trinity College, receiving his B. S. degree in 1910 from that school. Later he studied at Yale University, receiving his M. A. in 1913, and his Ed. M. degree from the Graduate School of Education at Harvard in 1927.

Mr. Smith was instructor at the Night high school, Hartford, Connecticut, in 1909; vice-principal of the Seymour high school, Seymour, Connecticut, in 1910; instructor at the Crosby high school of Waterbury, Connecticut, four years; principal of the Seymour, Connecticut high school until he resigned to become principal of the Leominster high school, Leominster, Massachusetts.

In 1927 Mr. Smith came to Great Falls from the Leominster high school to be principal of the local high school, a position in which he served for two years. Upon the resignation of S. D. Largent, Mr. Smith was tendered the position of City Superintendent of Schools which he accepted and has capably and efficiently administered since. In 1930, during the summer session, he was a visiting professor at the University of Montana.

The students and teachers of the city schools, and particularly here in high school, have a very warm feeling toward Mr. Smith. He has been a distinct asset to our school and community.

It is the tradition and law of the American people that boards of education shall be responsible for public education.

The board of education constitutes the link between the community and the professional forces who are actually in charge of the schools.

The powers of the board of education are statutory and granted powers, vested in the boards only through the constitution and the legislature, and although they represent the state in lay leadership and must be responsible to the state for specific acts, nevertheless there still remains a large degree of self-government.

This privilege, which is clearly an implied responsibility to formulate policies to meet ever changing local needs and conditions, is a most wholesome challenge to the board of education. Serving on a board of education is no perfunctory matter and there is ample room for the best thought and energy on the part of every member in any community.

The board of education has the power to contract for services, materials, supplies and other necessities to be used by the school, and when so authorized and directed by the electors of the district or county to purchase, issue and sell bonds of the district or county, purchase school sites and contract for new buildings.

THE ROUNDUP

DIRECTOR OF VOCATIONAL GUIDANCE

EDWARD N. TISDALE, B. S., Ed. M.

Edward N. Tisdale was graduated from the Medfield high school, Medfield, Massachusetts, in 1919. He attended Massachusetts State College at Amherst for four years, obtaining his B. S. degree in 1923. He received his Ed. M. degree in 1927 at the Harvard University Graduate School of Education. While at Harvard, he specialized in guidance and psychology. He attended the Simmons Graduate School of Social Service, taking up special work in the rehabilitation of the blind and war injured. At the Waverly School of Feeble Minded, he spent a year studying the symptoms and treatments of Feeble Mindedness. One summer was spent by him at the Fitchburg Normal School, Fitchburg, Massachusetts. He also studied crime and pauperism in the state institutions of Massachusetts in Boston for one summer.

Mr. Tisdale's teaching experience began in the high school at Medford, Massachusetts, in 1923, where he taught mathematics and science, as well as coaching athletics. While here he coached two State Champion Athletic teams, one in football, and one in track. After spending two years here, he resigned to become the Director of the Newton, Massachusetts, Continuation School where he stayed for two years. He then took charge of the guidance work at the Newton high school for three years, resigning to take over his duties as Director of Vocational Guidance in Great Falls High School, which position he has held since.

Mr. Jahr spent eight years as instructor at Jordan and Big Timber, Montana, becoming superintendent of schools at the latter place. In the fall of 1931, Great Falls High School was fortunate enough to obtain Mr. Jahr as its vice-principal, a position he has ably administered. In addition, he has taught electricity here.

The English department is the only department in the Great Falls high school in which every student is enrolled. Four years of English are required for graduation, there being no substitutions for the first three years.

In the last semester of the third year a course in American literature is now offered. In the fourth year a student may elect a course in the survey of English literature, or he may substitute journalism or public speaking for one or both semesters' work in English literature. He should, however, make sure that the college which he plans to enter will accept such substitutes for English proper.

One of the chief aims of the department is to guide the student in his choice of books for leisure reading. To this end he is required to read a definite number of books each semester. Both teacher and pupil have found our new library of inestimable help in this as well as in regular class work.

In the department there are at present fourteen full-time teachers and four teachers who have one or two classes in English.

The Social Science department of the Great Falls high school includes courses in each of the four years of high school. In the freshman year, the courses offered are vocations, commercial geography, and ancient and medieval history. In the sophomore year, there are courses in world history and in modern history. American history is a junior subject and problems of democracy is given in the senior year.

American history is the only course in Social Science which is required for graduation. There are fourteen classes in American history, at present, in which over four hundred pupils are enrolled. The local chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution presents a gold medal annually to the student in American history who has contributed most to his class for the year.

There are nine hundred students, approximately, enrolled in the elective courses in Social Science. There are eleven full time Social Science teachers. This department occupies the room on the third floor west of the corridor.

The study of languages, academic subjects, gives mental discipline, develops an understanding, accuracy and clearness of expression, and exerts a cultural influence. It affords a key to our modern civilization which is interwoven with the institutions, laws, literature and general culture of nations not our own.

The course provides for four years in Latin, three in Spanish, and two, each, in French and German.

Latin, the proper basis for various subjects, especially modern languages, begins, in the first year, with mastery of simple syntax, composition and translation, advances each year with increased study of history, government and tradition, finally emphasizing the cultural element through classical literature.

The scope of modern languages is extensive, especially in the field of science for French and German; in the commercial, for Spanish. The first year dwells on rudiments of grammar, acquisition for a working vocabulary, accurate reading and translations, and practice in conversation and composition. Each additional year stresses an increased practical reading and speaking knowledge, together with a study of the countries and their correlation to our own.

When the local high school was established, it offered only two years of mathematics, freshman algebra and plane geometry.

However, this was the era of the wide spread development of the mineral resources of the vicinity: the copper smelter here, a silver smelter at the Giant Springs, silver mines running full blast at Neihart and prospering coal mines at Belt and Sand Coulee; it was not long before the men at the head of these industries—all technically trained men themselves—demanded that the mathematical curriculum be enriched so that local boys might enter the technical schools without being compelled to incur the expense of a preparatory school. Thus intermediate algebra, solid geometry and trigonometry were added as electives.

Later, because algebra caused an undue percentage of failures in college, advanced algebra was offered to fortify our prospective engineers' chances of success.

Following the policy of satisfying local needs, a short course is available in the use of the slide rule.

Thus, mathematically, the school is adequately equipped to meet the requirements of this technically minded age.

In 1929, there were brought together with common aims, three of the important subjects in our work-a-day life, general science, biology, physics, and chemistry. Thus was born that which we now know as the Department of Science.

It has been the aim of the department to give to the pupil not only a foundation upon which he can build in the future, but, should his formal schooling end with the high school, he would go out the better fitted to comprehend the beauty, power, and precision of nature, as well as to understand the intricacies of our scientific age. That more than nine hundred pupils are served by the six instructors in the department, is ample evidence that the unification is a success.

Our laboratories, through the farsightedness of the Board of Education, are excellently fitted for the performance of the most useful experiments and lend as well a proper atmosphere for study. Moreover, we are indebted to the A. C. M. Company and the Montana Power Company for many valuable pieces of apparatus, which, were it not for their interest in the schools, we would not have.

It is our hope that the department will continue to grow in value, not only to the pupils, but through a better trained citizenship, to the community as well.

The late William Howard Taft, noted jurist, twenty-seventh president of the United States, and later chief justice of the United States Supreme Court, in an address at the Pierce School in 1914, said: "I have advised my boy, who is just now beginning the practice of the law with a first class legal education, that he ought to supplement his general theoretical knowledge of the law with a course at a good business school."

A knowledge and understanding of the fundamental principles and practices of business will help us to understand better the world in which we live and to fit into the social structure of which we are a part.

The commercial department of the Great Falls high school offers courses in shorthand, typewriting, bookkeeping, business administration, and commercial law.

The high school courses in general are so planned that a student may major in commercial work and at the same time plan his four years' course to meet college entrance requirements in many colleges.

The Industrial Arts Course consists of four years of work in shops and mechanical drawing. To complete the credit of work one must have one period of shop, and one of mechanical drawing.

In mechanical drawing the first two years consist of problems in the use of instruments, geometric construction, intersection, and development and working drawings. The third year consists of machine drafting and the fourth year of architectural drawing.

The Shop Courses consist of woodwork, machine shop, printing, electrical and sheet metal. The first year includes six weeks in each shop. This is an exploratory course after which a selection of four shops will be made for the next two years' work. In the second and third year one semester is spent in each of the four shops selected.

The senior year may be spent in a shop previously taken, or in architectural drawing for one semester each.

The Industrial Arts Course is not intended to turn out finished tradesmen, but to give experience in various trades. In addition he gains considerable experience which will be helpful in any line of occupation.

The Home Economics department for the last eight years has offered three years of work. The number of students has tripled. Foods 9, clothing 9, clothing 10, and foods 10 are semester subjects, while home economics 11 (a course in home problems) is a year subject. Each year these courses are modified to meet the changing needs of the students. The practice apartment helps give home-like conditions for the meal serving, interior decoration, home care, and home nursing units.

There are six courses offered in the Art department—art structure, one or two semesters, applied design, commercial art, interior decorating and costume design, each a semester's work. Art Structure is the foundation course and must precede all except the courses in interior decorating and costume design which are open only to junior and senior girls. Each course demonstrates the application of the same art principles in its particular field. These courses tend to develop not only the student of unusual ability but also emphasize an ever widening influence for good taste in the home and community of which the student is a part.

EXPLORATION

"Montana, Montana, Glory of the West"—Lewis and Clark thought so, too. They related with happy recollections their exciting adventures in present Montana.

For many weeks Lewis and Clark sailed up the Missouri River, scanning open plains, dense forests, towering mountains, and wild animals. Soon they arrived at a river strangely white in appearance. At first a little awed and then amused, Lewis said, "Looks like someone poured a teaspoonful of milk into a cup of tea." Clark said, "Milk River sure seems to fit it."

One day a small party left the boat to go hunting. They had not gone far when they saw a large, brown bear. Several hunters fired and wounded the bear, but this bear was not to be unavenged. Furiously it sprang up and ran toward the men. Clark fired again but the bear, although hurt again, ran forward with blazing eyes and open mouth, displaying enormous teeth. The men, distracted, dropped their arms and ran. Two jumped into the canoe, the rest leaped down a twenty-foot bank, and now the bear was lowering its paws to strike and—bang! Lewis, at the crucial moment, had fired from the canoe and saved one of his men from disaster.

From St. Louis to the Pacific, it was necessary for them to have an interpreter—to acquaint the Indians with the friendly purpose of the trip. Charbonneau was the man. He refused to accompany the expedition without his wife and child. Fortunate it was that Lewis and Clark acquiesced, for his wife was the invaluable Sacajawea.

When Maria's River was reached, although only a branch of the Missouri, it was so broad that they could not tell which was the main river. The Indians said the true Missouri had great waterfalls. Lewis, with a small party of men, followed Maria's River for several days but found no falls. They returned, and with Clark journeyed up the true Missouri. It was on a glorious June day that the Great Falls of the Missouri were first sighted by white men.

After leaving the Great Falls, they followed the Missouri through that wonderful canyon, the Gates of the Mountains.

Sacajawea was once more most opportune. She created a friendly atmosphere with the usually hostile Shoshones. From this tribe the expedition received much valuable aid in continuing the journey westwards.

As Lewis and Clark undertook the expedition into the unknown territory to find and to discover a new land, so we, the classes, come to G. F. H. S. to learn what is, to improve what already exists, and to discover no new lands but the means to make the already discovered land a better place in which to live.

MISS LOUISA SPONHEIM

Louisa Sponheim

Being sponsor of a class in high school is a much harder task to successfully see through than many people realize. It requires an abundance of each of three traits: namely, patience, goodnaturedness, and willingness to co-operate. It takes much personal time, and an abundance of energy which might very well be used elsewhere. Moreover, a great amount of responsibility is thrown on a class sponsor's shoulders, which many are unwilling to assume. If this is accepted cheerfully, and with resolve, all is well; if it is accepted but half heartedly, much difficulty lies ahead. In short, the success of a class depends primarily on the personality and ability of its class sponsor.

Miss Louisa Sponheim has been a success as our sponsor, not only because she possesses all these necessary traits, but because she has held at all times a genuinely sincere interest in the welfare of our class. Her frankness, enthusiasm, and tolerance have been especially worthy of praise. In any group of some four hundred young people who are liable to have unusual or unsatisfactory ideas, dissension easily occurs, even concerning minor matters. This seems to have been true of our class. But each time the situation has been successfully ironed out to the best advantage by Miss Sponheim.

The Class of 1933 can rightly consider itself a success; and it has been the class sponsor who was directly responsible for this success. To her all credit is due.

SENIOR BALL COMMITTEE

BOTTOM ROW: Rachel Lease, Eleanor Lux, Dorothea Monahan, Miss Spouhneim, Helen Rothweiler, Helen Lowery, Larue Samuelson.

The four-year trip through Great Falls high school for the Class of 1933 came to an end with flags flying higher and brighter.

It was in the fall of 1929 that the adventure was launched. The large group of eager students chose as leaders Emil Beaulaurier for president, June Briggs for vice-president, Bob Clary for secretary-treasurer, and Mr. Ellsworth Lummley as a guiding hand. As freshmen they were isolated in the afternoon platoon and as a result became much better acquainted with each other. Enthusiasm and willingness marked all their undertakings and already the calibre of the class of 1933 was pronounced. In the Booster Carnival they sponsored the fish pond very successfully. By a single point did they lose the interclass basketball tournament.

The class of 1933 was the first sophomore class to enter the new million-dollar high school. Miss Louisa Spouhneim now took the role of guiding star with President Emil Beaulaurier, Vice-President Albert Tracey, Secretary Fay Sederholm, and Treasurer Margaret Stevenson. The '33 sophomores won the first place in the basketball class league.

Steadily gaining prominence the class of '33 chose for officers Dick Ritter, Bill Hall, Fay Sederholm, and John Southmayd, with Emil Beaulaurier as honorary president. The Inlwa campaign contest was easily won. The girls won the inter-class basketball tournament. "Nathan Hale" was presented as the class play with Mrs. Huhn directing. The Junior Prom held in the Green Mill was truly a triumph. Many members of the class gained prominence in extra curricular activities.

As seniors in 1932-33 they handled their position as leaders. Again the Inlwa campaign was won and again many members were prominently represented throughout school activities. The comedy "Seven Keys to Baldpate" was well given and met with great success.

The class of '33 has made an enviable reputation in the Great Falls high school. Having completed four well-spent years, again they are freshmen—freshmen in the great School of Life.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

McNAMARA M. POPE

President

The ideal American boy! Mack embodies all the qualities of a true friend, a real student, and a capable leader. His winning personality has gained for him friends throughout the entire school. His class records prove his ability and efficiency as a student. He was chosen class president to guide us through our last year and has done so in a way which is greatly to his credit.

In football, his matchless defense in backing up the line made him one of the mainstays on the team. Mack has made a true success of his high school career.

Mack

ART GONSER

Vice-President

Art Gonser

It is Art Gonser's smile that first warms your heart—that inimitable, half-shy, half-impudent, wholly likeable smile that belongs to Art Gonser alone.

Closer acquaintance brings no disillusionment: Art is all that his smile indicates, and more, too. Overflowing enthusiasm, good sportsmanship, charming personality and manners—what more could be embodied in one high school student?

Yet even this is far from being the sum of Art's attainments. We certainly have every reason to hope that Art's intriguing smile will come to be as famous in the outside world as in school.

FAY SEDERHOLM

Secretary

To my Fay

Fay Sederholm—at once that name conjures up the image of a vivacious young lady with a big smile for every one (especially coquettish for the boys. She has an adorable twinkle in her large blue eyes, and one sidelong glance just slays 'em.) Her cheery "hi" wins her many friends, but besides being so very popular with everyone in school, instructors and students alike, Fay has other assets as well. She is an all-round good sport, cooperating and aiding in every way for the good of our class. We unanimously vote Fay the belle of '33.

HARRY H. BRIGGS

Treasurer

Harry is the type of student who is popular with everybody. His easy-going attitude and pleasant personality attract him to all fellow-classmen with whom he comes in contact. He has conducted himself very creditably in his capacity as our class treasurer. Harry has been decidedly prominent in school life and has taken a genuine interest in the welfare of the class of '33. His prowess on the gridiron and on the basketball floor has made him popular not only with student athletic fans, but with all habitués of the gridiron and gymnasium.

The Great Falls Branch of the National Honor Society received its charter in 1923.

Members are selected by the faculty. The letters or the key which members may wear are C. S. L. S., which stand for character, scholarship, leadership, and service. Selection is based upon records in these qualities. National rules require members to rank in the upper one-third of their class in scholarship. Membership in the National Honor Society is a high honor. It is an indication that the student possesses character and ideals of service as well as high marks.

Not more than fifteen percent of the graduating class may be members of the Honor Society. Five percent may be elected to membership at the end of the Junior year. Nine members of the present Senior class were elected at the close of their Junior year. The following thirty-eight members were selected at the close of their Senior year:

William Bartholome, Leo Bass, John Boetcher, Margaret Boetcher, Ellen Boyd, Glenn Casey, Elizabeth Cooney, Frank Glisson, Eunice Goodwin, Robert Graham, Charles Harnison, Marjorie Hartmann, Harris Hogan, Margaret Holmes, James Humpbrey, William Hutchinson, Mabel Judge, William Kennedy, Eleanor Lofstead, James Logan, Eleanor Lux, Charles MacCharles, Maxine Mayland, Joan Messelt, Howard Mickey, William Morris, Erina Ranieri, June Rude, LaRue Samuelson, Edward Scott, Florence Sirola, Bergit Skiftum, LaRue Smith, Jack Terrill, Burke Thompson, Theodore Walker, Lorraine Whittimore, and Louise Wilkinson.

Seven hundred and fifty students started their high school career in the fall of nineteen hundred and thirty—the first class to spend four years in the new building. Under the able leadership of their sponsor, Miss Jeanette Garver, the class was organized with Randall Tracey as president, Bob Pappin as vice-president, Don Larson as secretary, and Stanley Armstrong as treasurer. In the Booster Carnival that same year, they conducted the traditional fishpond with unusual success.

Randall Tracey and Bob Pappin retained their offices during their second year while Jane Bowman was elected treasurer and Jennie Bovee, secretary. The sophomores held a very successful dance and staged one of the best assemblies of the year. They again figured in the Booster Carnival, this time with confetti and a menagerie.

After these two memorable years, they chose as their motto, "Conquering now, and still to conquer." "Blue and Gold" were selected as the class colors.

When the class organized again as Juniors, they re-elected the officers of the preceding year. They also sponsored a Halloween dance with many novelties. The Junior play, "Green Stockings", directed by Miss Macrae, was another success. At the Booster Carnival the Juniors took charge of gambling and sold confetti.

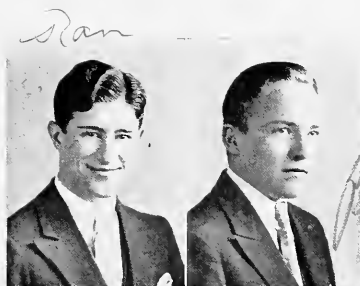

The Junior class accomplished as much individually as collectively. It has in its ranks eleven football and two basketball lettermen. Many members of the class have been outstanding in Inniwa and Roundup campaigns.

The Juniors have one more year of high school left. If they accomplish as much in the future as they have in the past, Great Falls high school may well be proud of the achievements of the class of '34.

Although the class of '35 was slow in being organized during the first year, the members were determined to make up for lost time. Under the leadership of Mr. Don Williams, sponsor, the class progressed rapidly. As freshmen officers, Bill Corcoran was elected president; Herbert Hansen, vice-president; Marion Hibbard, secretary; and Beth Armond, treasurer. At the Booster Carnival in their first year, they managed the traditional fish pond and the bowling ball. This class also stands out as being the first in the school's history to stage a Freshman dance.

This enthusiastic group of students began their second year determined to make bigger and better accomplishments. Bill Corcoran was again chosen president; Leroy Purvis, vice-president; Norman Donaldson, secretary; and Herbert Hansen, treasurer. With these officers in charge the class sponsored the Sophomore dance with great success. Frank Valacich, seen at all the games giving good support represents the Sophomores on the cheer team.

In the middle of their Sophomore year, the members of this class elected new officers. For the third time Bill Corcoran was chosen president. Leroy Purvis and Norman Donaldson also retained their offices and Jack Muir was elected treasurer.

The Sophomore booths at the Booster Carnival were attractive and very successful. After winning bull dogs at the balloon gambling booth, the crowd was thankful for the ice cold pop sold at the other Sophomore booth.

Many athletes have represented this class on the school teams. Several Sophomores made the Reserve football team and Stanley Patterson made the first team of Great Falls High. Bill Corcoran, Stanley Patterson, and Tom Baluka were members of the first team in basketball and several boys represented the class on the Reserve basketball team.

The class of '35 may now look forward to two more years of progressive achievements.

Ambition; cooperation; perseverance; what more does a class require for an assured success? Thus, the class of '36 sauntered into the halls of Great Falls High School on the morning of September 6, 1932.

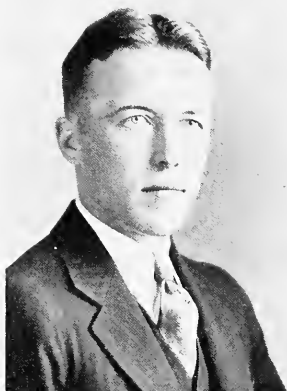

Although the election of officers was not held until the middle of the second semester, the freshmen showed their ability by selecting shrewd and able leaders. These were represented in the persons of Rolland Ellis, president; Betty Johnson, vice-president; Beth Andretta, secretary; and Maxine Sprague, treasurer. Mrs. Ruth Duffield and Mr. Art Neill, sponsors of the class of '36, have taken a lively interest in the activities of the class. The members feel confident that in these they have found true friends to guide them throughout their high school career.

During the football season a freshman team was organized, which proved heavy competition for their various rivals. This, together with a basketball team organized later in the year, served to create an extensive interest in the line of sports among members of the class. Freshmen always took an active part in the promotion of school activities. They were represented at the Booster Carnival by the traditional freshman Fishpond. In addition to this, they sponsored a musical review in which talented members of the class took part. Many subscribers to the "Iniva" were found among this group. At football and basketball games freshmen were loyal supporters, and they displayed a great deal of enthusiasm for all high school sports.

Due to the large number of students enrolled this year, it was necessary for the platoon system to be established. Under this plan the freshmen attended school in the afternoon, while the other three classes attended in the morning. This gave students ample time for study and a great deal more was accomplished than if they had attended all of each day.

The class of '36 has well begun a high school career deigned to be one of the most profitable and successful of all classes.

GOLD!

Gold! What colorful pictures that expressive word brings onto the stage of one's mind! Gold! The news of gold discovered in Montana in 1857 started a wild stampede of eager-eyed men into a land almost unacquainted with white men.

But gaining of great wealth was not as easy as some tenderfeet thought. Many hardships were suffered. Supplies ran short. The prospectors rode on mules and traveled by ox teams which were not given sufficient rest and became jaded. Indians were still a menace. In every aspect the journey was a hazardous one.

There was very little settled life in the early camps. Towns sprang up over night where before only a few missionaries, explorers, and trappers had penetrated, and disappeared in the same manner. Men, dreaming of returning to the states, lived constantly in the hope of striking a rich claim. But many never realized their dreams. Some saw possibilities in the land and turned to less spectacular but more certain earnings from the land.

Of the strange things occurring during the gold rush, one of the strangest was the arrival of a carpet. A woman brought it from the east, but on finding that her new home had a dirt floor, she let her precious carpet lie useless.

One day a very ingenious man, knowing the true use of a carpet, offered the woman eight hundred dollars. She accepted. The new owner cut the carpet into strips and sold them to the bartenders.

Drinks at the time were paid for with gold dust weighed in scales on the counter. Any gold dust spilt from a miner's unsteady hand was swept back into his pouch. But Montana's first carpet changed all this. The bartender placed under the scales the strip of newly-purchased carpet. Into this the stray gold dust fell and lay unnoticed. At the close of the day the carpet was thoroughly cleaned. Business was poor indeed if the bartender did not realize from the carpet an average of $100 a week.

To the prospectors we owe the early development of Montana. They were the early explorers of our great state. Many turned to farming and cattle raising. Helena, one of the largest and most important cities in Montana, as well as many others, was built originally by miners. It was the early miners' courageous, eager efforts which opened Montana's remote places to the world. These daring visionaries saw Montana as it would be and did not lack the fortitude to brave the hardships of a wild territory that we might have our glorious state today. Of such quality will have to be our men and women of the future for a grander state and union and such qualities our school activities infuse in the students who will be the leaders of tomorrow.

ACTIVITIES

BAND

RICHARDS
Director

Our high school band is an organization which looks back upon a seven year period of successful development under the capable leadership of Mr. Richards. However, it has only been incorporated in the school itself, for two years, having previously been a civic organization. During its two years in high school, the band has shown a marked development in membership and discipline, as well as in quality.

The band has rendered invaluable services in school life, and is now regarded as indispensable. Mr. Richards and the band members have co-operated to the fullest extent with the athletic department through their services at the football and basketball games. The attendance at the games as well as the enjoyment derived by the patrons has noticeably increased.

The annual concert given by the band was marked by careful preparation and promising musical ability. The concert offered in collaboration with the Bobcat Band proved to be a very entertaining program. There is nothing finer for the young man of high school age who is musically inclined, than belonging to a band, an organization which affords him disciplinary training, without the usual drudgery attached to it.

ORCHESTRA

RUTH BISHOP
Director

One of the most important outside activities in the curricula of our high school is the Music Department, under the direction of Miss Ruth Bishop. At the present time the department offers training in Orchestra, Band, A Capella, Boys' Glee Club, Girls' Glee Club, Mixed Chorus, Freshman Girls' Chorus, and Harmony.

All the various organizations have grown, especially in the case of the orchestra, which now consists of seventy-five members. During the past year the orchestra, with the assistance of the glee clubs and mixed chorus, presented two Sunday afternoon concerts for the public and two concerts for the grade pupils. Besides these programs, the orchestra and glee clubs have appeared on various other civic programs.

Small ensemble groups including a string quartet, string trio, and vocal ensemble have performed at the different service and civic clubs throughout the year.

The goal of the music department is not to develop professional musicians from the students, but is rather to increase the interest in worthwhile music, and by doing so enable the students to secure a greater enjoyment later in life.

THE SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE

MARJORIE MACRAE
Director

"The Seven Keys to Baldpate," which was chosen as the Senior Class Play, was presented Friday night, April 28, 1933. It was warmly received and showed a great deal of effort and preparation on the part of the performers. The able directing of Miss Marjorie Macrae was especially noticeable in the production.

The play, by George M. Cohan, which is a melodramatic farce with a Prologue, two acts, and an Epilogue, contains an exciting, lively plot, centering about the efforts of one William Hallowell Magee, sensational novelist, to write, on a bet, a literary masterpiece at Baldpate Inn, a summer resort, which is entirely deserted, it being dead winter. The novelist encounters many difficulties while attempting this work which are both intriguing, and amusing. Before his time is up, he comes in contact with grafters, politicians, a hermit, a blackmailer, and numerous other queer, rural folk, which all ends in a very sensational novel for Mr. Magee.

As an extra non-curricular activity, for the first time instituted in Great Falls high school, a debate team was organized and held an active year of inter-squad and inter-school debating under the direction of Mr. Lessley, speech instructor.

The cross examination type of debate was likewise newly instituted as a new feature of this ancient art. Originated at Oregon State College about five years ago, it has been widely accepted in schools and colleges throughout the country. The outstanding advantages of this type of debate are: it requires a thorough knowledge of the subject in question; it requires the contestants to think on their feet without assistance of any kind; and it is much more interesting to both contestants and spectators than the other type.

The subject for debate this year, as chosen for all Montana high schools in state competition, was "Resolved: That at least one-half of all state and local revenue in Montana should be derived from sources other than tangible property."

DEBATE

During the school year the team participated in four inter-school debates and six inter-squad debates, giving each member a chance to speak on either side of the debating question.

Vernon McGahan and Margaret Holmes, who composed the first squad, lost the district title to the Belt High School squad, by a judges' vote of 2 to 1. They upheld the negative side of the state tax question. McGahan and Holmes also upheld the negative of this question against Butte High School at Butte, in a non-conference, non-decision meet.

Elizabeth Cooney and Jack Boetcher met the Belt squad here in a non-decision meet, upholding the negative. Lillian Epstein and Margaret Holmes likewise met Belt at Belt in a non-conference meet, upholding the affirmative.

Great Falls included debate as a definite part of its Speech program this year. The Oregon System of cross-examination was used with unusual interest being shown on the part of the student body. A debate squad carried on a definite system of inter-squad debates during the season. The value of argumentative speech was stressed rather than victories.

EXTEMPORANEOUS SPEAKING CONTEST

VERNON MCGAHAN

Since time immemorable the gifts of speech have been the most valuable means of communication of mankind. Today, it is even more indispensable than ever, because of the radio, vitaphone, and the stage. From the dignified senator lecturing on governmental measures to the shabby demagogue harranging from a soap box, the silver tongue of oratory is prevalent.

The men and women of tomorrow, whose voice prowess will be their country's pride, will come from those who are prominent in scholastic forensics. Our public speaking department has done much in encouraging promising speakers. In the annual extemp speaking contests, contestants chosen from the public speaking contests are given equal chances for preparation and delivery of topics concerning current topics.

Out of thirteen contestants, winning places were given to Vernon McGahan, Jean Pratt, and John Southmayd. Vernon again tasted victory in the district meet, thereby winning the right to represent Great Falls at Bozeman the last of April. The public speaking department is certainly worth infinitely more to the citizens of tomorrow than it costs the taxpayers of today.

EXTEMPORANEOUS WRITING CONTEST

"Man is the noblest work of God." His literary inspirations, springing indirectly from a divine source, should be preserved, encouraged, and respected to the utmost. Literary talent is not merely a gift, given to few, which should be encouraged, but one which must be encouraged. Through the story of our times, through our customs, ideas, and experiences, the preceeding generations prosper. But the written word is the only agency to preserve these benefits for posterity.

The extemporaneous writing contest, held annually, is a very admirable incentive to abet youthful literary ambition. Out of seventy-four contestants, winning places were given to Glenn Casey, Gail Leach, LaRue Samuelson, Bessie Fagenstrom, and June Rude. More than ever today, we need young men and women who can express themselves along lines of beauty and reason, to offset the sordid materialism which is throttling all that is beautiful by the throat. The extemporaneous writing contest is an invaluable step in this direction.

TRAPPERS

The life of the early trapper in Montana was fraught with grave peril. But the American trapper is one of the bravest and hardiest types of men in our history. Such a man was John Colter, whose race for life is one of the most thrilling events in Montana's glamorous history.

Colter and Potts were trapping on the lower Jefferson. Early one morning they were surprised by a band of a hundred Blackfeet warriors. The Blackfeet war-cry, the most blood-curdling of any tribe, signed his death-warrant as far as they were concerned. Colter reached their dugout canoe, realizing that there was no hope of escape. Potts attempted to run, but a Blackfoot arrow changed his mind. He wheeled about and killed his assailant. He was immediately riddled with arrows.

The Indians admired Colter's valor, and decided to have some fun with him before killing him. They conveyed to him by signs that he was to run for his life across the plains. Preferring this sporting chance to gruesome torture, he bounded off like an antelope, with fleet Indians in full pursuit. Now Colter was a swift runner, and, although the ground was covered with cactus, he paid little heed to the thorns in his feet. He ran six miles, out-stripping all the Indians.

He had almost reached the river for which he was headed when he broke a blood vessel from the terrible exertion. Glancing behind, he observed three Indians in close pursuit. One started to hurl a spear, but was so startled at Colter's awful appearance that he tripped and fell. Colter pinned him to earth with his spear. Colter reached the river and swam to an island in the center. The current had formed a raft of driftwood here. He dived under this, and kept his head between two logs all day long. The Indians, completely baffled, gave up the search at nightfall.

He was still in great danger, suffering from exhaustion, hunger, and lack of protection. Having no gun, he couldn't hunt, and he didn't dare build a fire. His only chance to survive was to go to the nearest white settlement, namely Lisa's Fort, across the mountains. He traveled for seven days before he arrived, living on berries and roots. He went back to the states and married. None believed his story until it was confirmed by the Blackfeet themselves, many years later.

The purpose of our athletic department is to offer our students every opportunity to develop themselves athletically and to vie with other Montana students in football, basketball, and track. Montana pioneers led clean, hard lives and their stamina and moral fortitude made them good athletes. We, as their descendants, may well represent them through our athletic program.

COACH JORDAN

FRANK JORDAN

"In my opinion Mr. Frank Jordan of the Great Falls High School is a high class athletic coach. In our competition with Great Falls he has always presented well-drilled and high-class teams. They seem to have everything a coach can teach them. Also, in our dealings with Mr. Jordan we have always found him to be the most congenial and always ready to meet us at least half way"—Coach Harry Dahlberg, Butte High School, Butte.

"Coach Jordan's teams always show fine coaching in fundamentals. His team was one of the best teams that Flathead met in 1932."—Coach F. E. "Rip" Wilson, Flathead County High School, Kalispell.

"I wish to state that in our relation with teams coached by Coach Jordan of Great Falls, I have found that the teams have always been well coached in the fundamentals of the game and also in good sportsmanship."—Coach Eddie Chinske, Custer County High School, Miles City, Montana.

FOOTBALL 1932

Great Falls	32	Shelby	13
Great Falls	53	Big Sandy	0

The Great Falls Blue Bisons started the '32 football season with two rather decisive victories. Although Shelby combined a fairly tight defense and good running plays against one Bison squad, she went away with the short end of a 32 to 13 score.

Another squad consisting of the most promising players started the game against Big Sandy. The Big Sandy eleven, seriously handicapped by the loss of six available lettermen, fell to defeat under a smooth running machine to the tune of 53-0.

These games gave Coach Jordan a chance to pick the best possible lineup to start against Lewistown the following Saturday.

Lewistown 0—Great Falls 6

Great Falls won its first conference game of the season by nosing out Fergus County High by a one touchdown margin.

After 36 scoreless minutes of erratic play, a pass from Williams to Brandt resulted in the first score of this game. Early in the fourth quarter, the Bisons advanced the ball to the 34-yard line, then Williams tossed a nice pass to Brandt who caught the pigskin on the 25-yard stripe and romped on to the 3-yard mark before he was finally downed. Two 5-yard penalties were called in rapid succession, one for Fergus and one for Great Falls. But on the next play Brandt started around end, cut back, and crossed the goal-line standing up. Although the try for point failed, the six point margin was sufficient, since a well functioning pass defense held the Golden Eagles last minute scoring threat.

Miles City 19—Great Falls 0

The day of the Miles City-Great Falls game dawned with a cold north wind blowing across the city. By five o'clock snow began to fall and by eight o'clock, game time, the gridiron was covered by a white blanket two inches thick.

Although there was no action that was especially thrilling during the first quarter, it was easily seen that there would be none of the passing on which the Bisons had practiced so long. Before the end of the first period the ball was nothing more than a piece of ice, and the players' hands resembled pieces of raw beef steak.

Nevertheless, Custer County's Cowboys gave such a nice exhibition of ball handling and driving power that it seemed as if the football field was entirely dry. On the other hand, the Bisons were not very effective.

Miles City's first touchdown came in the second quarter as a result of a fumble. Kane, Miles City fullback, took the ball on the 5-yard line and lost possession of the ball before he had passed the line of scrimmage. At least four other players touched the ball before it came to rest behind the goal line. Although the pigskin seemed to be in possession of a Great Falls player, the referee ruled that the ball was dead while still in possession of a Miles City player and therefore was a touchdown for Miles City. The extra point was converted. In the same quarter the Cowboys drove over another touchdown, making the score 13 to 0 at half time.

The rest of the game was played very close to the midfield marker. But late in the fourth quarter the Bisons desperately tried a pass which Kane of the Cowboys intercepted and ran back eighty yards for a touchdown, the final score of the game.

Helena 27—Great Falls 13

The game had no sooner started than disaster fell with a sickening thud. Before five minutes had elapsed Strong of Helena tore off a 40-yard jaunt to the goal line for the first score of the game. However, this was not the only time that the Bisons' goal line was to be crossed. Before the half was over, Helena's fiery quarterback had made a 40-yard run for another score, and shortly afterwards another touchdown was made as a result of a line plunge from the 1-yard line. Therefore, the score at half time was 19 to 0 for the Bengals.

The third quarter opened with Great Falls fighting harder. Although Strong again broke away for a long touchdown run of 50 yards, and Helena picked up two points by means of a safety, the Bisons were making them fight for every yard they gained.

The kind of a spirit that was built up in the third quarter could not be held down. Early in the fourth quarter the Bisons began to click. The long drive which covered about three-quarters of the length of the field, Gonser laid a pretty pass in Briggs' arms for the first touchdown for the Bisons. The point after the touchdown was converted, making the score 27 to 7. Again the Bisons got the ball, and with the aid of many perfected passes, the second touchdown was chalked up for Great Falls, after a final line plunge. The gun was the factor that finally stopped the rally.

Harlowton 7—Great Falls 12

The first-half jinx continued in the Harlowton game, since this game was the fourth one in a row in which the Bisons were unable to score in the first half. Not only this but the boys from Wheatland County had run up a seven-point lead in the first quarter.

Great Falls received the opening kickoff but was forced to punt. Harlowton, who had the same team with which they had won the class B championship for two years in succession, started swiftly down the field. With the aid of a 5-yard penalty they managed to do the first scoring of the game. Scofield, Harlowton fullback, plunged across the goal posts for the extra point.

Again, late in the second period, Harlowton drove to within five yards of the goal line. Scofield again took the ball for a plunge but stumbled and fell on the 2-yard line as the gun sounded for the half.

The third quarter started with a rejuvenated Bison team. Instead of taking the punches, Great Falls handed them out themselves. Although neither team scored in this period, the spectators watched as good a display of fierce tackling and hard running as was displayed on Memorial Field this year.

The fireworks started with the beginning of the fourth quarter. Williams made a kick that traveled 50 yards and rolled out of bounds on the 7-yard stripe of Harlowton. Harlowton then kicked to the Bisons' 30-yard line. On the very next play Rossberg, with the aid of excellent blocking, put on full steam around left end and never stopped until he had crossed the goal line. Nevertheless, the Wheatland County boys still held a one-point lead since the point after the touchdown failed to materialize.

After Great Falls kicked to Harlowton, Harlowton again put on a sustained drive that was not stopped until it met a stonewall on the Bison 16-yard marker. Here the Bisons took the ball on downs. Three passes, two from Gonser to Tabarracci, and one from Williams to Rossberg, put the ball on Harlowton's 15-yard line. Another first down put the ball on the 6-yard stripe. Then, after two plays at the center, Gonser skirted right end for the winning touchdown. Again the Bisons failed to convert the point after the touchdown. But the gun sounded shortly after to close the best exhibition that had been put on thus far in the 1932 football season.

Havre 0—Great Falls 0

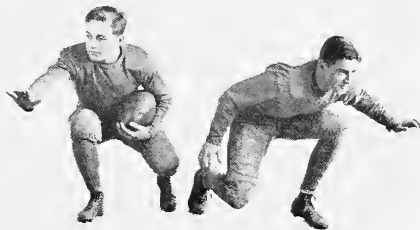

The ancient adage that any football game between Great Falls and Havre is bound to be a good one, regardless of how the teams may perform against other opposition, proved again to be correct since the Ponies and the Bisons battled to a scoreless tie in their game this year.

On the opening kickoff of the game, Havre kicked to Great Falls. Rossberg received the ball and at first it looked as if he was going to return the ball for a touchdown. His interference had cleared the entire left side of the field so effectively that there was no danger of any of the men on that side tackling him. However, two Havre men cut across from the opposite side of the field and ran him out of bounds on the Ponies' 30-yard line. But from that time on until the end of the third quarter Havre had the best of the battle.

On the very next play after Rossberg's spectacular run, the Bisons fumbled, giving Havre the ball. For the rest of the first quarter the action was not so rapid since the game had become a punting duel.

Then the complexion of the battle again changed. Before the gun that ended the half had sounded, Havre's Ponies had advanced the ball past the Bisons' 20-yard line three times. Once the Ponies were stopped on the 18-yard line, once on the 4-yard line, and once on the three-yard line.

As has been the custom in the past, Great Falls looked better in the second half than in the first. Although Havre forced its way to the Bisons' 5-yard line in the third quarter, the Bisons started a fourth quarter rally of their own.

The Bisons took the ball on their own 13-yard stripe, and, as the result of two runs by Rossberg, and a beautiful pass from Gonser to Pappin, the ball was carried to midfield. Another first down and a pass, Gonser to Briggs, placed the ball on the 11-yard marker. Although three plays advanced the pigskin to the 4-yard line, Great Falls lost the ball on the next play because of a poorly executed lateral pass.

Although Havre had time enough to run three plays before the game ended, this made the second time the teams had battled to a scoreless tie in three years.

Kalispell 0—Great Falls 25

The Bisons closed their 1932 football season with a defeat over the Kalispell Tigers. Although the Great Falls team had been improving every game, the team that went onto the field against Kalispell appeared to be a finished product in every department of the game. Vicious tackling, excellent blocking, hard running, and an excellent passing attack combined to form a smooth running machine which even the clawing Tigers from Kalispell could not stop. This was the first game of the 1932 season in which Coach Jordan could use all his substitutes without being in danger of slowing up the offense. Three full teams were used, and the shock troops functioned just as smoothly as the first team.

The Bisons scored in all four quarters. Kalispell got the first break of the game, the Bisons' safety man fumbled a punt, and the Tigers took possession on the 20-yard line. A first down placed the ball on the 11-yard stripe. But here the Bisons stiffened their defense and Kalispell was unable to push beyond the Bisons' 10-yard line. Here the tide of battle turned. With the aid of a 30-yard pass, Gonser to Ugrin, and several running plays, the ball was advanced to Kalispell's 20-yard line. Here, however, the Bisons lost the ball on downs. Although Kalispell managed to kick out to midfield, they were unable to stop a score since the Bisons made a first down on the 42-yard line, and on the next play Brandt eluded all would-be tacklers to cross the goal line standing up.

The Bison shock troops started the second half and proved to have just as effective an offense as the regulars. The touchdown which came in this quarter materialized as a result of a long drive which began on the Bisons' own twelve-yard line, and ended with Tabarracci plunging two yards for the score.

Kalispell chose to kick. Great Falls received and started a drive that placed the ball on the 35-yard-stripe as the period ended. The Bisons continued their drive with another pass from Gonser to Ugrin. However, they again lost the ball on downs. Kalispell kicked out of danger but the Bisons started another drive which resulted in Gonser running the last 20 yards for score.

The remaining part of the third quarter and the first part of the fourth was a zigzag affair marked by frequent substitutions. Late in the fourth quarter, however, the entire first eleven came back into the game. The first play that they executed was perfect. Valacich not only carried the ball over standing up but had two men as interference who were ready to block any tacklers. Gonser's place kick for the extra was good for the only extra point converted during the game. After Great Falls kicked off to Kalispell neither team threatened to score.

The most decisive victory of the year and the Bisons' 1932 football schedule was brought to a close by the shot of the final gun.

BUTTE 33—GREAT FALLS 12

Coach Harry Dahlberg brought a team from Butte to play the Bisons a post-season tilt on the Memorial Stadium. Although this team was slated to win the state championship, it had lost a nip and tuck battle to Helena.

During the first quarter the boys from the Mining City truly displayed championship form. The Butte team got off to a speedy start which marked the downfall of the Bisons. Butte crossed Great Falls' goal line at the rate of a touchdown every four minutes, making the score at the end of the initial period 19-0 in favor of the visitors.

It appeared that Butte was going to make a runaway affair of the evening's entertainment until the second quarter began. From this point on, the teams seemed much more evenly matched. The beginning of this period Great Falls was in possession of the ball on her own 36-yard line. Here the Bisons opened up with an aerial attack that took the Miners by surprise. First Brandt hurled a pass to Gonser who was not downed until he reached the Butte 31-yard stripe. Then a pass, Gonser to Tabarracci, and a first down put the ball on the 10-yard line. As a result of four line plunges, the Bisons crossed Butte's goal line for their first score of the game.

However, Butte quickly retaliated with a 25-yard run which was beautifully executed by Buckley. Butte's flashy quarterback. The Miners also added two points to their grand total as a result of a safety.

Again, in the beginning of the third period, Butte started out like a whirlwind. Having received the kickoff, the Miners, with the aid of many long runs by Buckley and Popovich, marched down the field to another touchdown making the score 33-6 for Butte.

This was the last score that Butte was able to make, since the Bisons then began to look like the team it had shown evidence of being all season. Before the third period ended, they had advanced the ball from their own 14-yard line to Butte's 9-yard line. The minute rest between quarters did not hamper the Bison onslaught, since they crossed the goal line a few second later.

Although there was no more scoring during the quarter, the Bisons seemed to have the upper hand. They ran their total of first downs up to fifteen to match that of the visitors. Another interesting fact connected with the game was that only two teams had crossed Butte's goal line all season, and that the Bisons were one of them. But that first-quarter scoring spree that the Miners had put on eliminated any doubt as to the superiority of the Butte team.

FOOTBALL RESERVES

This year's reserve squad played one of the hardest schedules that has ever been played by a reserve team from Great Falls. Nevertheless, the Green and White established one of the best records that any second team has had for several years, having won five games and lost three.

Coach Schultz awarded thirty-one reserve letters. Of these reserve lettermen, twenty-two, or two full teams, will be back next year as likely candidates for next year's first team.

THE ROUNDUP

BASKETBALL 1933

The Bisons' first scholastic game was played against Dutton, and the Bisons chalked up their first victory after winning by a 50-14 score.

When the Bisons played Sinms it looked as if Sinms were going to win. But the Bisons rallied in the final period and ran up enough of a lead to defeat Sinms 37-23.

In the first start against conference opposition, Great Falls was defeated by a strong Butte aggregation by a score of 28-18. During the whole game the score was comparatively close, but in the final minutes of the play, Butte's net almost caught fire because of the friction of the many accurately shot balls through it. The next evening the Bisons again stepped out of conference competition in order to play Centerville, the only team that defeated last year's Bisons in a non-tournament game. The Bisons came out on the long end of a 26-13 score.

The Bisons next clashed with Helena on the home floor. For the first time during the season the home team seemed to be of championship caliber. With the starting gun, the Bisons set up a terrific pace and began to run up a score. Until the closing minutes of the game Great Falls displayed a stonewall defense and a passing attack which was impossible to beat, the final score being 36-20. The succeeding night, the Bisons took their first trip of the year to Lewistown. Although Lewistown led the greater part of the game, Great Falls won 27-19.

Friday night, of the next week, the Bisons tangled with the Blue Ponies from Havre to produce one of the best games of the 1933 basketball season. At the half the score was tied at 9 all. In the next two periods the lead zig-zagged back and forth and the score came to an absolute deadlock five times. However, the Bisons worked the proverbial last minute play to drop the ball through the net for the deciding basket, enabling them to beat the Ponies 22-20. When the Bisons played Chinook Saturday night, they did not seem to click. Chinook gained a small lead early in the game and held it until the final whistle. The Bisons played very poorly and missed many shots. The final score was 19-15 for Chinook.

Next, the Bisons took a trip that took up the whole week end. For Friday night's game, they journeyed to Butte. The score of that encounter was the queerest score ever run up in a conference game on Butte's floor. The Miners played excellent basketball the entire first half. They held the Bisons to three points while they proceeded to net twenty-two points. The Bisons seemed hopelessly sunk, but in the second half they were the ones to play excellent basketball. While Butte ran up but four points, Great Falls managed to get seventeen. However, in this last half spurt, the Bisons did not net a sufficient number of points to win, since the final score was 26-20 for Butte. Saturday night, however, the Bisons managed to break even with an 18-11 victory over the Helena Bengals. The game was rather slow, but it was one of the cleanest, in regard to fouls called, games of the year.

The Miles City Cowboys next journeyed to Great Falls. The resulting hoop engagement was undoubtedly the best of the 1933 basketball season. Through a thrilling exhibition of close guarding, the Bisons held the Cowboys scoreless for the first quarter and without a field goal for the entire first half. However, in the second quarter, out of five attempted free throws, Miles City converted five, making the score 11-5 at half time. To begin the second half, the Cowboys checked the Bisons long enough to manage to tie the score at 11 all, and obtain a two-point lead, 19-17, at the end of the third quarter. The next period the Bisons tied the score at 19 all. Each team sunk another basket and a free throw to tie the score at 22 all at the end of the game. An overtime period was called but ended with a score of 24-24. After the team had had a five minute rest, the second overtime period was called. In this period, one of the Cowboys converted a free throw for the only score and the game ended 25-24 in favor of Miles City.

The Bisons next journeyed to Havre and Chinook. Although the score was comparatively close, the Bisons easily overcame Havre by a score of 22-15. However, they ran into difficulty against Chinook. The Sugarbeaters got the jump on the Bisons and never relinquished the lead until the game ended with the Bisons on the short end of a 22-19 score.

The Bisons next beat Lewistown 27-17 on the local floor. The only time Lewistown led was in the second quarter, but the Bisons led 9-8 at the half.

With this final game the Bisons closed a fairly successful season with nine victories and five defeats.

The lettermen were Gonser, Briggs, Snell, Corcoran, Brandt, Pappin, Patterson, Baluka, Kremer, and Smith.

BASKETBALL RESERVES

Although this year's team of basketball reserves did not establish as good a record as that of last year's team, the seconds had a very successful season. Belt, the Class B district champion, was the only team that was able to overcome the baby Bisons. This strong team only managed to eke out a victory by a five-point margin in the two games which it played against the Reserves. But Fort Shaw, Simms, Choteau, and Dutton were easy pickings for the fast Reserve team.

Most of the boys who played on the Reserves this year will be back again next year for a try at making the first team. Among these are Balzarini, Lang, Dillow, Chamberlain, Hayeck, Hansen, and Panceich. Buscher, Bartholome, Duffield, and Reed will not be back because they graduate with the class of '33.

TRACK 1932

With the new track in excellent shape and Coach Kain ready to produce some real track men, those who turned out for last year's track team had high hopes of taking the state meet.

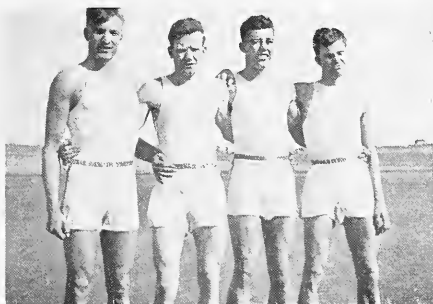

The first preparatory meet which was held was the triangle meet between Helena, Lewistown, and Great Falls. The Bisons easily won by a score of 53 to 42½ for Helena, and 30¾ for Lewistown. The following first places were recorded for Great Falls: Speck—the mile and half mile; Snell—the shot put and broadjump; Dalich—the discus; Quam—the 120-yard hurdles; and the 880-yard relay by a team composed of Mickey, Rossberg, McGregor, and Speck.

In the Relay Carnival of the following Friday, a reserve track squad placed ninth while Chinook placed first.

The next day the first team went into action against the representatives of the fourteen largest schools in Montana. In the morning and afternoon most of the preliminary heats to all events were run. The finalists in these heats participated in the first night track meet ever to be held in Montana. The Bisons managed to place second with 33½ points to Butte's 49½ points. Speck won the mile and the half mile, while Snell won the shot put and the broad jump. The half mile relay team again won first place.

The Big Fourteen meet was the last meet before the state meet at Missoula. The Bisons did not do as well as some had reason to expect, since they placed fifth with a total of twelve points. These were all made by Speck and Snell. Speck won the half mile, and placed third in the mile. Snell took the only other points by winning second in the shot put event for the Great Falls tracksters.

Other members of the team who participated in meets were: Buscher, Vadheim, Rossberg, Briggs, Gonser, and Nelson.

WRESTLING

When the wrestlers turned out to participate in their line of sport this year, their efforts were increased by seven medals which were to be awarded to the best wrestler in each of seven weight classes. After having been coached for many long hours by Mr. Paulsen, the final matches by which the medals were to be won, were run off, Roman Bury, 105 pounds; Frances Hortick, 115 pounds; Bob Brovan, 125 pounds; Walt Westman, 135 pounds; George Letz, 145 pounds; and Fred Hannula, 155 pounds; defeated all contenders in their respective weight class, and won the medals.

Besides these intramural contests, the Great Falls wrestling team won two interscholastic matches against Belt by taking every match. The winners for Great Falls were: Bury, 105 pounds; Parker, 115 pounds; Brovan, 125 pounds; Westman, 135 pounds; and Hannula, 165 pounds.

FROSH FOOTBALL AND BASKETBALL

Those Freshmen who received their numerals were: Bofto, Matsko, Shile, Buckland, Maffit, Warner, Lindquist, Elliot, Dorich, Walker, Shanahan, Lane, White, Carrio, and Johnson in football; Dorich, Williamson, Shields, Booth, Merriek, Bowman, Maffit, Elliot, Matsko, Bofto, and White in basketball.

In both sports, football and basketball, the Frosh showed some very promising material for next year's varsity team. The Freshmen played seven games in their basketball schedule, won three, and lost four after defeating St. Mary's, the Boilermakers, and the West Side Independents, and losing to the Boilermakers, the South Side Junkers, Power, and the Night Comrades.

T H E R O U N D U P

However, the Freshman victories in football exceeded their losses. The Frosh squad played three games with the Junior High team with the result that neither team exceeded the other in scoring power. The first game ended with a score of thirteen to nothing in favor of the Frosh, the second ended in a six to six tie, and the third ended with a score of thirteen to nothing in favor of Junior High. Besides these three games, the team engaged in three battles in interscholastic competition. The first of these, which was played against Dutton, the Frosh won by the close score of thirteen to twelve. Then the team journeyed to Fort Benton to hand the Fort Benton Reserves a fourteen to seven defeat. However, in the return game with Fort Benton, the last game of the season, this same team beat the Frosh twenty-six to twenty-one after the Frosh had led for the entire game.

Y LEAGUE

In order to pick a small squad from the 120 candidates for the basketball team, Coach Jordan divided the mob into sixteen teams. The best players on each team were picked when the league games were over to form a squad of forty.

The Beavers, composed of Corcoran, Thompson, Ward, Nelson, Muir, Balzarini, and Ritter beat the Otters for the championship of this Zoo league.

Then, as preliminary practice for the scholastic season, the basketball squad divided into two teams, the A team and the B team, and played in the Junior League at the Y. M. C. A. Although neither team was very successful, the A team placed third with a percentage of .500.

VIGILANTES

"Men, do your duty!" The fearless Sanders' voice rang through the tense night air, and whitened the face of the doomed man. The surging miners turned to stone. A kick of the box; a sudden jerk; and George Ives hung dead in the moonlight.

"Men, do your duty!" The end of the "Innocents" was at hand; and with those four words began an organization that has come to be symbolic of Montana—the Vigilantes.

It was a desperate situation that confronted Montana in that winter of '63. There is never a gold rush without its bandits, and the rich diggings of Bannock and Virginia City had been no exception. Lured by tales of fabulous wealth, some of the most ruthless characters of all history had been drawn to Montana, and under the leadership of the mysterious Plummer, terrorized the country with plunder and murder.

But retribution, swift and remorseless, was not long in following. The crisis came with the murder of one Nicholas Thiebalt, a quiet, industrious youth whose only offense was the possession of a small sum of gold. For this he was shot down in cold blood by George Ives, one of Plummer's chief deputies.

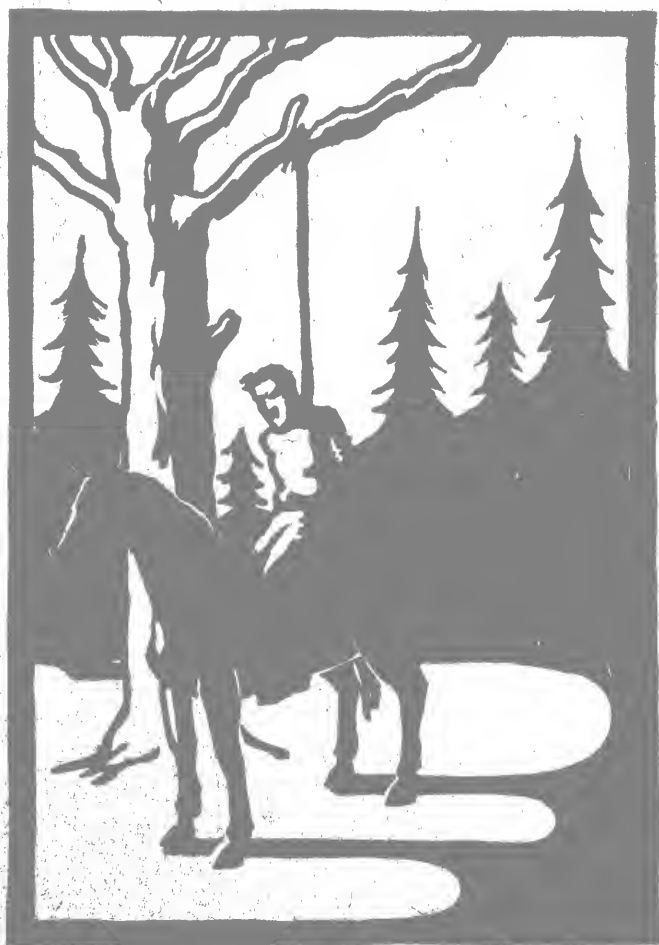

It was a clear case; but the "Innocents" were so well organized and the country held so helpless in the grip of terror that conviction or punishment seemed nearly impossible. The fate of the whole territory was at stake.

Then it was that Wilbur F. Sanders dared to step forward and show himself a hero. Later he was to be Montana's first United States Senator, but at the time when he undertook the prosecution of George Ives, he was only an unknown, young lawyer.

The story of that historic trial and the drama of those three days is now a well-known tale. On December 21, 1868, George Ives was pronounced guilty and was executed before a rescue could be effected.

That night a small group of determined men met secretly and formed the nucleus of that grim band which in the next few months was to break the power of the "Innocents" forever, and to restore law and order to Montana; and for a motto, these fearless citizens took the memorable words of Wilbur F. Sanders: "Men, do your duty."

Montana will never cease to look back with pride upon these chosen words of one of her first organizations; nor will she ever cease to hope that her later organizations, and especially those in high schools, will develop the type of citizens such as these were—men possessed of the resource to deal with stern reality, and courage to uphold the right, and the high idealism of the Vigilante motto: "Men, do your duty!"

The Bookkeeping Club has met regularly twice each month on Monday during the sixth period of the current year and has had an average attendance of about twenty-five members. The purpose of the club is threefold: fellowship, service, and education. The year's work has consisted of the following activities, many of which have become traditional with the Bookkeeping Club: the charity matinee dance to secure funds for the Christmas candy drive, and the sacking of six hundred bags of candy and nuts for the children's cafeteria dinner; the All-School Mixer, February 17, 1933; the beauty parlor at the Booster Carnival; and the annual club picnic. The most enjoyable social meeting of the club was held in the gymnasium last October, during which new members were initiated and a mock auction was staged for the entertainment of all present.

In the Forum every girl is given an opportunity to prove her ability in debating through verbal force, conclusive proof, and quick thinking; interesting discussions of the topics of the day are held; and parliamentary drill is practiced with varied and amusing programs.

Formed under the sponsorship of Miss Mayne Murchie in 1920, The Forum has remained, for thirteen years, one of the most prominent and popular clubs of the school.

The most exciting activity of the year is the Senate-Forum debate. In addition to this activity, The Forum had a fortune-telling booth at the annual Booster Carnival. The booth was decorated as a Grecian temple and many came to consult the Delphian oracle. The club also presented a program in the school assembly.

At the present time The Forum has twenty active members. This club is sponsored by Miss Helen McLaren.

The Great Falls High School Home Economics Club, which has for the past three years been divided into three divisions, is now one club. Its aims are for happy, healthy girlhood, for contented home life, for ever advancing communities, and for giving service to the department, the school, the home, the community, the state, and the nation.

This year the theme subject of the Club's programs has been the study of etiquette. In May, the members published a little booklet on etiquette for the high school student. At Christmas, they made candy and cookies for those at the Poor Farm and tray cloths for the soldiers in the Veterans' Hospital at Fort Harrison. At the Booster Carnival, as usual, the club sponsored the sale of home-made candy. In May, they staged the annual co-ed Prom. The club presented the Home Economics Department with some useful and beautiful furnishings for the practice apartment.

NATIONAL ATHLETIC SCHOLARSHIP SOCIETY

To be eligible for membership in the National Athletic Scholarship Society, a student in the Great Falls high school must earn a major letter in football, basketball, or track, and at the same time have grades for three consecutive semesters equal to or higher than the average of the school. At present fifteen boys are members of the local chapter of this honorary society.

The purpose of the National Athletic Scholarship Society for Secondary Schools is to foster high scholarship among boy athletes, to stimulate a desire for balanced training, to elevate the ideas of sportsmanship and to develop more outstanding leaders in the secondary schools of the United States.

There are over twelve hundred secondary schools with organized chapters of this society. Within the six years that it has been of national scope, it has become the largest honor society in existence. Chapters extend from Connecticut to California, from Montana to Florida.

Coach Frank Jordan has been the sponsor of this society, since its inception here four years ago. Since its beginning, this organization has, without a doubt, raised the standard of scholarship among athletes in this school.

The chief purpose of the Senate this year has been to create and foster an active interest in forensics.

The club started the year's activities by presenting a novel program based on "A Day in a Radio Station." Skits, talks, air ads, with general talks and debates furnished the entertainment.

The club conducted a successful concession at the Booster Carnival.

The true activity of the club, though, has centered on its weekly meetings. Team debates, extemp speeches, and general talks by the critic on speech techniques.

The annual Forum-Senate debate concluded the year's work. The question debated was the very timely question: Resolved that the United States recognize Russia within the next six months. The Forum won the entire vote of the judges. The Senate upheld the affirmative side of the question.

GENERAL CUSTER

No other event in Montana's romantic history is as vivid to her citizens as "Custer's Last Stand". It means as much to us as the battle of the "Alamo" means to the Texans, and General Custer is as great a hero as David Crockett.

The Sioux Indians resented the intrusion of prospectors in the Black Hills. The United States government offered to buy this land, but the Indians asked a fabulous price. White men continued disregarding the Indians' rights to such an extent that they were soon on the warpath.

Difficulties had arisen in Washington because Belknap, one of Grant's cabinet members, was found guilty of fraud, selling Indian lands for his own profit. Grant, chagrined because this scandal was brought out in his administration, spent his wrath upon Custer, who was recalled to testify before the senate. Custer was relieved of his command, and it was only through the plea of himself and his senior officer that he was permitted to return to Montana, to participate in the great drive against the Sioux.

The band was estimated to contain about a thousand warriors. General Terry ordered Custer to follow the Sioux with twelve troops of cavalry. Custer's scouts looked over the village from the bluffs. Apparently they overlooked the village, for, instead of the reported one thousand, there were between four and five thousand Indians armed to the teeth. Custer, disillusioned by his scouts' reports, thought he could easily overcome the supposedly small band. When, to their amazement, they encountered the redskinned horde, they dismounted and formed a circle. Not one survived. General Custer was one of the last to fall.

Custer escaped the scalping knife. Some historians say that the Indians did not scalp men displaying unusual valor; however, Chief Rain-In-The-Face claims that no man is brave enough to escape scalping. Custer, known to all Indians by his long golden hair, had sheared his hair the preceding day; he wore buckskin clothes and had no insignia and was probably not recognized.

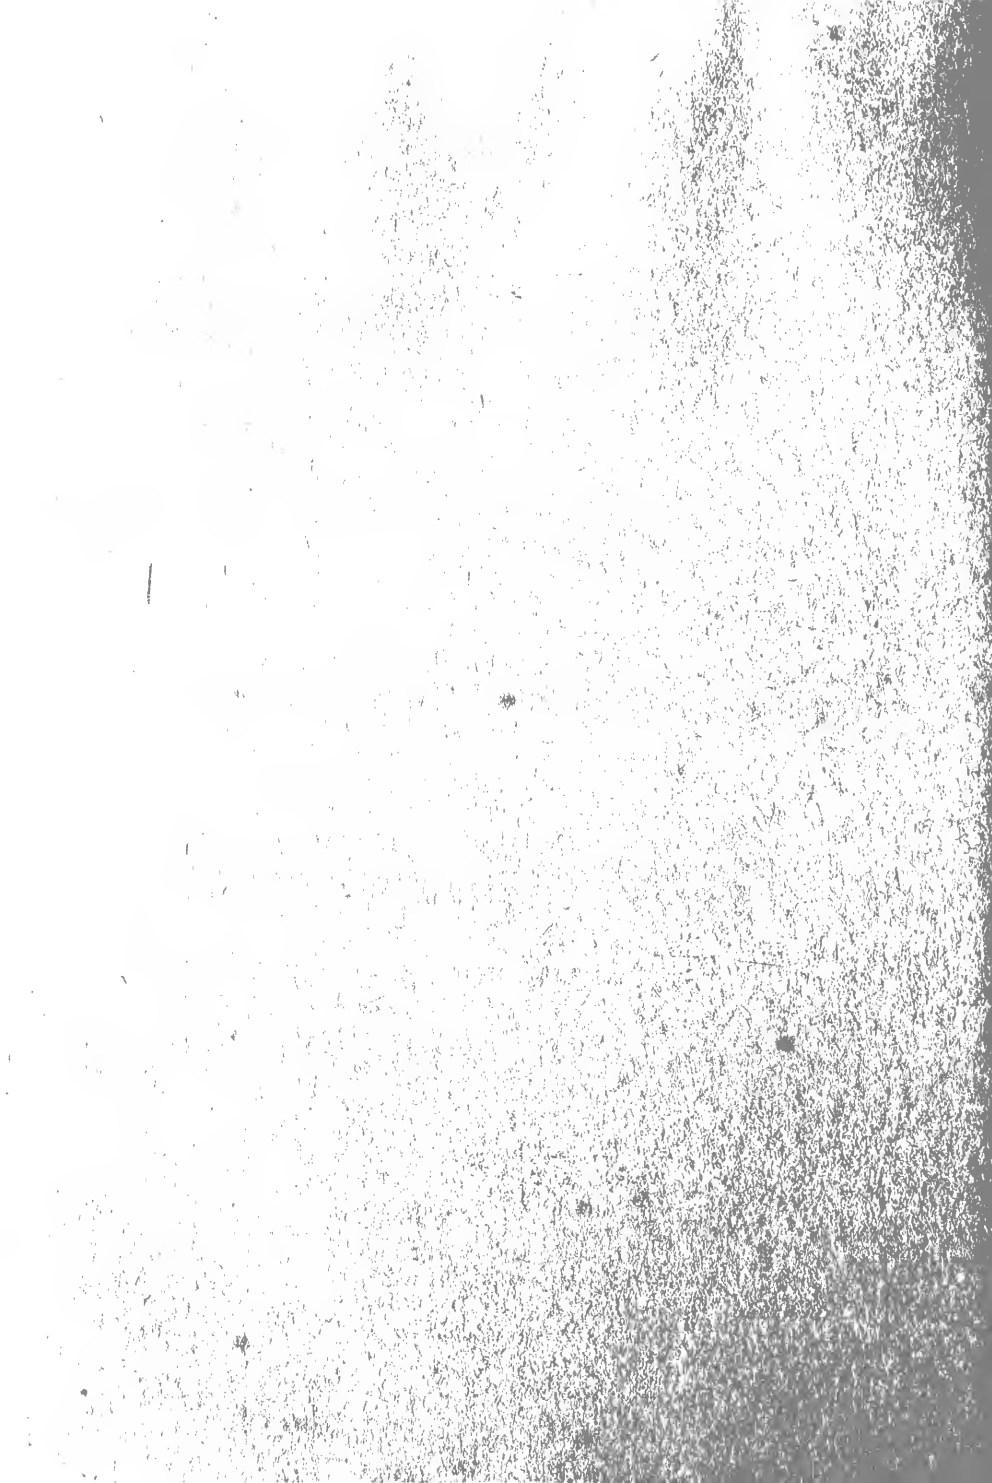

Rain-In-The-Face satiated his desire for vengeance on Tom Custer, the General's brother, for imprisonment. He swore he would cut out his heart and eat it raw. He fulfilled his ghoulish resolution.

Custer represents to us something more than a military hero; his death is a milestone in Montana history, and his name suggests to us something big and influential in our lives.

The memory of Custer's Last Stand should be as vivid to us as the memory of school day activities. To preserve these memories, this section is dedicated.

TRAFFIC SQUAD

The traffic squad was originated three years ago, through the efforts and under the direction of Mr. Edward N. Tisdale, director of Vocational Guidance. It has been of invaluable service to Great Falls High School in maintaining order and control in and about the halls and corridors during the period intermissions.

This year the squad was divided into two groups, the Upperclass and Freshman. This change was necessitated by the operation of two platoons during the school day. The upperclass group was in charge from first through fourth periods, and the Freshman group was in charge from the fifth through the eighth periods.

Due to the efforts of the traffic squad, congestion was avoided, gang loitering was eliminated, running was done away with, and traffic was generally speeded up.

ROUNDUP DAY

The Roundup staff this year sponsored once again the annual Roundup day celebration of Great Falls High School. Costumes of the old west were seen in resplendence about the halls and corridors of school. Cowboys, cowgirls, old fashioned ladies, gamblers, Indians, and other relics of the early days of Montana were very much in evidence.

The main features of this year's celebration were a gala assembly in the morning, a huge parade in the early afternoon, a football game in the afternoon, and a big costume dance in the evening to climax the day's activities. Along with these features went shorter periods than customary, with little or no work, unusual good naturedness on the part of both students and faculty members, and the whole-hearted cooperation of all concerned in staging this big celebration; all of which served to promote one of the most successful Roundup Days in the history of the school.

The morning assembly, which was very warmly received by all, was the outstanding success of the day. The play, "Collitch Annals", which was written by James Finn, and directed by Mr. William Lessley, speech instructor, was very unusual. The choruses of this production were under the supervision of Miss Mary Kimball. Miss Ruth Bishop of the music department was in charge of the musical numbers of the play. The play was interspersed with musical varieties, dance acts, and other novelties which added much to the program. A square dance, directed by Fritz Roll, was staged as a part of the morning assembly. Speeches were given by the following individuals:

Mr. Irving W. Smith, Superintendent of Schools
 Randall Tracey, President of the Class of '34
 Bill Corcoran, President of the Class of '35
 Roland Ellis, President of the Class of '36.
 Mack Pope, President of the Class of '33
 Robert Graham, Business Manager of 1933 ROUNDUP

The football classic played in the afternoon, which was between the graduating seniors and the prospective members of the 1933 varsity squad as evidenced in spring football training, was won by the Seniors, 19-0. The experienced older players proved too much for the underclassmen in all departments of the game.

The Roundup Dance, held in the high school gymnasium at 8:00 P. M., proved to be the largest dance of the school year. Peppy music was played by Joe Scanda's Green Mill Band. Many costumes were seen throughout the evening. A square dance was staged once more as the annual feature of this dance, and was nicely executed by as capable a group of square dancers as ever trod a barroom floor.

CLASS PROPHECY

"JUST OFF THE WIRE"

Scene—Newspaper office of International Associated Press.

Time—Year 1958, Month June, Day 8, Hour 11 P. M., Minute 59, Second 59

Action—Here we are in the receivers' room of the International Associated Press at exactly 11:59. There is a lot of commotion in the office. Editor John Cyr is struggling to overcome the shock of the news just received. The entire office is in a turmoil. Phones are ringing; typewriters are clicking; doors are banging, and all that sort of rot, and no wonder. Mr. Robert (Henpecked) Williams is dead, the victim of his high school sweetheart, the former Miss Ruth Richardson.

But listen to this: President-elect Keenan has named his cabinet. The news came as a shock to all present. The cabinet reads as follows: Secretary of the Hosiery Department, Larne Samuelson; Attorney for Green Roof Owners, Pat McAllister; Secretary for Disillusioned Sailors, Mack Pope; Secretary of Non-Spread Freckle Cream, Herbie Kornfeld; Secretary of Lost Soles, Dorothy Leatherman.

Clickety, click, click. Here's an item of the I. A. P. saying that William Peter Franklin Bartholome, president of the S. S. S. S., has tendered his resignation because he considers that the office takes a man of more ability. Mr. Bartholome has been president for twenty-four years, following the resignation of Skippy Skinner. Charter members of this organization are Earl Fake, Fritz Roll, Gook Brandt, Harry Briggs, Bob Speck, Ruth Swanstrom, Helen Covell, Dorothy Haney, and Violet King.

Hold everything! What's this? Well, well, well—Bill Hutchinson, the famed comedian, growing tired of his funny roles, has accepted the lead in the Passion Play. Pretty good, Bill.

Helen Lowery, noted dansense, has opened a saloon in Thueplen, Liberia, to teach the natives the aesthetic art of expression through the rumba.

12:21 P. M.: Last night Broadway experienced one of the most spectacular thrills in its history when the Jewett Night Club was raided. Among those apprehended were Dorothea Monahan, glittering in jewels, who smiled prettily for the photographers as she entered the Black Maria; Ruth Cooley, who was celebrating her debut at the Metropolitan Opera House; Eleanor Lux, the golden voice of the Ivory Soap Hour; and Victoria Borra, the charming and vivacious hostess of the night club. The two young debutantes of several seasons, Bessie Eagenstrom and Eleanor Hedberg, were charged with assault and battery for the throwing of beer bottles because of alienation of the affections of Paul Bowman.

We have just received a dispatch from New York stating that Gay Harper, popular crooner, is suing Don Collier for defamation of character. He asserts that Collier claims his voice is confusing with fog horns at sea. Collier is radio operator on the Penny Steamship Line.

Charles Harnison has just invented a new six-seater bicycle, so that he can accommodate more of his fair followers at once. Initials on some of the seats show them to be reserved for D. R., J. M., and P. H.

Here's a piece of news that may be of interest to music lovers. James Humphrey, famous pianist, made his debut to New York society last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Ritter. He has at last discovered a piano stool that is guaranteed as a positive non-leg crammer. This piece of furniture is a recent specialization of the common, ordinary toad-stool by Velma Ross. For the past twenty-five years, Miss Ross has been pulling Burbankish tricks.

Direct from Mrs. Costello's little boy Jim: The premiere of FLASH was an overwhelming success. Laurence Flaherty and Catherine Harris were superb as leads. Society's elite attended. Mr. Milton Arthur, director, came in his Ford, now a true relic. Ruth Johnson, head photographer, and Helen Runford, costume designer, both greeted the world over the air. Mayor of Hollywood, The Honorable Paul Wolfe, said, "Best production yet." Mr. Charles Duffield, sound director, and his wife (nee Mabel Judge) arrived in their new De Jarlias Rocknecord. Kenneth Throm, noted organist, played several flashy selections composed by William DeCew.

As added attractions, the World Review showed Harris Hogan searching for woodpeckers in the Canary Islands, Bob Hall surrounded by beaming natives in his recently established missionary station in Samoa, and Catherine Chapman, aviatrix, and Irene Brown, parachute jumper, performing their latest stunts in the International Air Carnival.

The news from the old home town!! The character of Miss Louisa Sponheim, high school principal, is at last cleared of the charge brought against her by Parnell Buscher, high school janitor. Mr. Buscher claims that Miss Sponheim deliberately and maliciously encouraged the throwing of confetti and the breaking of ink bottles. The defendant was represented by John Stewart and the plaintiff by Bergit Skiftun. Witnesses were Florence Adams, librarian; Margaret Boetcher, surgeon; Phyllis Graybill, society matron; John Stocker, ditch-digger; Shirley Dakin, evangelist, and Elizabeth Cooney, bridge expert. Judge LaRue Smith came as a special favor from London to preside. After heated accusations and countercharges, the jury, composed of Joe Bundi and Leo Lesh, grocers; Johanna Janszen, ear-ring designer; Bill Kennedy, circus clown, Mae Lassalle, housewife; James Logan, billboard hanger; Captain Howard Mickey; Bob Palagi, the big butter and egg man; Richard Zipperian, champion dog paddle swimmer, Arlene Thompson, advertising girl for Terrill toothpaste; Ted Walker, old fish collector; and Olive Stordahl, follies girl, rendered the decision, "Not Guilty." Judge Smith aptly phrased public opinion when he said, "From the beginning of the trial I knew that the sponsor of that illustrious class of '33 was incapable of sullying her own fair fame and that of the same never-to-be-forgotten class of '33.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We, the party of the first part (namely, the class of '33, nearly three score and three hundred strong), bequeath wholly and unconditionally to the party of the second part (namely, the Juniors, Sophomores, and last, but not least, the Freshmen), all paraphernalia, accomplishments, etc., that we have accumulated through four years of meritorious effort.

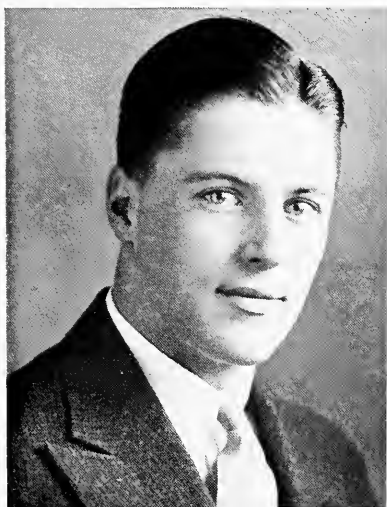

Milton Arthur's Ford to anyone who can push it; Gordon Black's mustache to Bruce Hart; Robert Kuhn's horse-laugh to Jim Wocasek; Stanley Richards' clarinet to Norman Richards; Margaret Reynolds' sophisticated airs to Kay Rinke; Rusty McCollum's height to Billy Austin; Jim Ignatius' big gab to Bill Bancus; Dorothy Blackseth cedes her coquettishness to Sally Hadley; Fred Henstis' love of school to Guy Henstis; Wayne Brandt's clowning to Eugene Daly and Johnny Provost; Eileen Moran's stylishness to Gloria Johnson; Carol Tuck's curls to Vivian Chamberlain; Fred Rossberg's pug-nacious instinct to Irving Buckland; Paul Bowman's faculty for being pinched to Tony Pinski; Gus Marsetta's wise cracks to Grant Parker; the Senior class leaves the Senior Entrance to the Juniors; June Briggs takes her petiteness with her, for who is worthy to assume it? Gertrude Geyer leaves her gum-chewing to Florence Skogen; Earl Wert leaves his membership in the Sewer Rats to Harry Miller; Jack McGregor leaves his ability to get the bums' rush to Jerry Shanley; Anzarina Fontana leaves her auburn tresses to Marilyn Hossheim; Harry Johnson leaves his riding boots to Billy Goodman; Bob Graham leaves his golf prowess to Jane Bowman; Evelyn Fish leaves her patronage of the Green Mill to Honey Lohrke; Leo Bass leaves his soda fountain ability to Mr. Jesse; Vi Garret leaves her loquacious instinct to Marjorie Tebeau; William DeCew leaves his noble conception of modern femininity to anyone so inclined. Leta Vegas leaves her Lilipution size to Evelyn Tuss; Charles MacCharles leaves his hockey stick to Sonny Blend; James Kremer leaves his detention record to Charlie Jackson; Art Gonser leaves his gridiron fame to George Dillow; Joe Moran leaves the family reputation to Merrill Moran.

For fear of contestation, we, the undersigned, do not hereby swear that we are in sound health, both mentally and physically, but do affirm the same. Having disposed of our accumulated impediments, we now cheerfully relinquish our shackles to the class of '34.

Everything herein having been combed, perused, cussed, and discussed with great diligence, we hereby affix our signatures. The above was subscribed in the presence of each of us, and was at that time declared to be our Last Will and Testament, and in testimony thereof, our signatures follow.

Again the Junior Class held their annual Prom, which was given for the Seniors at the Green Mill Gardens. The ballroom portrayed an old fashioned garden with its trellises adorned by a profusion of flowers. Paper hollyhocks in pastel shades decorated the walls and the orchestra was seated amid a bower of flowers. Attractive chandeliers made of pale pink paper hung from the lights completing the effect of the scene.

GREAT FALLS

The first to scan the wonderful water of the region around Great Falls were the members of the Meriwether Lewis and Captain William Clark expedition who reached this point in June, 1805. Lewis and his men marched along in the clear sunlight of a beautiful June day, with a fresh breeze blowing from the Shining Mountains which were all white with snow, glittering in the sun. Lewis wrote in his journal that this Land of the Shining Mountains was one of the most beautiful countries he had ever seen. He followed the river upstream, looking for the falls. In the distance he heard a noise like faint thunder. Then he saw something which looked like smoke rising across the plain. As he came nearer and nearer, the roar of the falling waters told him that he was on the true Missouri. Captain Lewis was the first white man who ever saw the Great Falls of the Missouri River.

An engineer, Milner Roberts and his son, Thomas P. Roberts, named the falls known now as the Rainbow and Black Eagle Falls and also gave the name of the Long Pool to the deep, quiet waters that extend ten or fifteen miles above the head of the rapids.

Great Falls is one of the most beautiful cities of the Northwest. Situated in the picturesque Missouri Valley near the mouth of Sun River, it looks back to Paris Gibson as its founder. It was in May, 1882, that the Hon. Paris Gibson came to this locality. Mr. Paris Gibson said in 1913, "When I first saw the beautiful tract of land at the head of the upper or Black Eagle falls, I at once decided to found a city there. I can readily understand the feeling of Captain Lewis as he gazed upon the scene seventy-five years before." It would be difficult to find another spot in all the Northwestern empire as advantageously situated as Great Falls for the centralization of commerce and industry, and at the same time for the creation of a beautiful residential city. Great Falls was laid out at the head of the falls which can in no way interfere with the residential districts, which are so situated as to command an impressive landscape view.

Since the arrival of Lewis and Clark and their band of devoted followers, and, indeed, since the arrival of Mr. Paris Gibson, numerous changes have taken place. It has been through the efforts of the business men that the city has advanced so rapidly and has become known as one of the prettiest, best, well laid out cities in the Northwest. The business men have exhausted their efforts to make the "Niagara of the West" the best city in the "Treasure State" and it is with pride that we point not only to the founders but to the people who have carried on the work begun over fifty years ago.

APPRECIATION

This year again we were forced to ask financial aid of the business and professional men of Great Falls, and once again they have given the student body their wholehearted assistance and cooperation. Many have had to go down deep into their pockets to help, but they have aided whenever possible. The student body cannot thank these friends enough. However, we can take this opportunity to express our gratitude to them for the aid they gave THE ROUNDUP when the book seemed doomed. Late last fall the Seniors voted to issue THE ROUNDUP as in years past. That action is creditable, but not nearly as much so as the action of our business and professional friends who really made THE ROUNDUP possible. Again we thank them and wish them success the remainder of the year and in future years.
